Born 1855—Still Going Strong

Mrs. Hanna Chapman Barker is counting the days until she can celebrate her 100th birthday, Sept. 30. There'll be a quiet party at the Aged Women's Home where she has lived for the past two years. Two weeks ago she had a bad fall and that was the first time she's seen a doctor for "years and years." (See story on Page 13.)

Socred Bars Critics

EDMONTON (CP)—Liberal opposition leader J. Harper Prowse suggested in the Alberta legislature Thursday that Premier Manning reconsider his "ill-considered" action of banning Alberta's two largest newspapers from his press conferences.

Leading off the debate in reply to the speech from the throne, ex-newspaper man Prowse said the premier's action will hurt only the public which has a duty to be interested in public affairs.

OPPOSED SOCREDS

He was referring to two press conferences called by Mr. Manning in the last two weeks. Representatives of the Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal were excluded. Both papers opposed the Social Credit party in the election campaign which preceded the June 29 Alberta election.

At Monday's press conference the premier announced the makeup of the five-man royal commission appointed to investigate opposition charges made during the election campaign.

ENTITLED TO OPINION

Mr. Prowse, a reporter for the defunct Edmonton Bulletin before the Second World War, said the premier was entitled as an individual to dislike those who did not see things the way he does.

(At Monday's press conference representatives of The Canadian Press, British United Press and radio stations CFRN and CJCA were invited and attended.)

"However, the premier holds press conferences, not as an individual, but as the head of government of this province," Mr. Prowse said. "When a person assumes a public office, one of the burdens which he assumes with that office is the loss of his right, when acting in an official capacity, to consider his own wishes as an individual."

Mr. Manning followed the Liberal leader as speaker but made no reference to press conferences.

Retiring

LESTER PATRICK

Canada's "Mr. Hockey," Lester Patrick, soon will retire and sell the Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League to his sons, general manager Fred Hutchison, and a group of Victorians. The story is told by sports editor Jim Tang in his column, "It Beats Me," on the sports pages.

UN Protests to Reds

Koreans Branded 'Trigger-Happy'

Unarmed Trainer Blasted from Sky

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters)—The United Nations command Thursday accused "trigger-happy gunmen" in North Korea of shooting down an unarmed training plane and damaging another.

One of the most strongly worded UN protests since the end of the Korean War in July, 1953, pointed to eight other such shooting incidents in the last 10 months and said the Communist gunners "seem to derive a fiendish delight" in firing against unarmed planes.

A UN announcement said the trainer plane, carrying an American pilot and observer, was shot down near the UN side of the demilitarized zone Wednesday. It said a C-47 transport plane looking for the missing trainer Thursday returned to its base with bullet holes in one wing.

Maj-Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior UN member of the military armistice commission, made the protest to Communist members of the commission. He demanded the immediate return of the pilot and observer whose plane crashed in Communist territory and punishment of the guilty gunners.

Parks described the shooting as "an unprovoked hostile act" and protested against "the wanton murders and acts of inhumanity committed by your side."

Parks' protest letter said UN ground observers "saw your side open fire while the defenceless plane was over the demilitarized zone and subject it to continuous murderous and devastating ground fire until the aircraft crashed into the territory under the military control of your side."

LISTS 53 VIOLATIONS

Parks said the demarcation line was difficult to identify from the air. Communist planes had intruded over the line on 53 different occasions, he said, but not once had any fire been directed against them.

"In the past 10 months alone, there have been nine officially recorded instances in which UN command aircraft have been fired upon by your trigger-happy gunners, who seem to derive a fiendish delight in firing against unarmed aircraft incapable of returning their fire."

CLEMENT ATTLEE

The British Labor party leader and former prime minister, Clement Attlee, suffered a cerebral thrombosis just after returning from a holiday in Yugoslavia 10 days ago, his wife disclosed in London Thursday night. She said he has made a recovery but is now suffering from a skin ailment. Mr. Attlee is 72.

Police Capture Killer

CHICAGO (AP) — Cop-killer Richard Carpenter was flushed out of a northwest side rooming house by police with tear gas Thursday night.

The capture of the fugitive ex-convict, who had slain one officer and wounded another, ended Chicago's biggest manhunt since FBI agents shot down desperado John Dillinger 21 years ago.

The building in which the 26-year-old gunman was found is a mere two blocks from the Biltmore theatre in which Carpenter shot and wounded a rookie policeman who tried to arrest him Wednesday night.

Police surrounded the building after receiving a tip from other residents that Carpenter was holed up in a second-floor room. Carpenter had held three residents as prisoners but a man managed to slip out and call police.

Carpenter was caught on the roof of the building after the tear gas was shot into the room where he had been terrorizing the family. There were no reports of gunplay in the capture, although Carpenter was armed.

Mystery Blasts Rock Oak Bay; Experts Baffled

Four mysterious blasts shook peaceful Oak Bay yesterday afternoon and caused plaster to fall in some houses.

Uneasy residents telephoned the police. Police rang the navy and the Daily Colonist rang the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. But late last night there was still no official explanation.

Oak Bay police timed the tremors between 3 and 3.10 p.m.

LIKE TRUCK

"One shock was like a truck hitting our office," said the officer.

"We checked a blasting company but found they were not working at the time," he said.

"The navy reported they had no ships on target practice," he added. "Anti-aircraft practice was held by the army between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., but this was in the Albert Head region, a good distance from here.

"In any case such firing does not cause shock," he said.

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said that seismograph records were undisturbed during the tremors.

The meteorological station at Gonzales point reported that their windows were rattled but that the barometer needles were not moved.

Mrs. James T. Lee, 2550 Maynard, said: "The shocks brought down plaster in my house."

RCAF officers at Vancouver and Comox said that so far as they knew there were no jets in the neighborhood.

"Jets breaking the sound barrier produce a noise like a ripple of thunder but not usually any earth tremors," said one officer.

One possible clue noticed by a number of people was a strange cloud formation seen at the time of the tremors.

"The cloud was like a long feather, unlike anything I've ever seen," said Oak Bay police radio clerk Harry Woods.

"I noticed it just at the time of the noises," he said, "but it didn't look to me like anything formed by a plane."

W. A. Scott, who runs the Guest House hotel at 1052 Newport, also noticed an "unusual" cloud formation.

"My wife and I have experienced many earthquake tremors but these blasts this afternoon were different," said Mr. Scott. "There was a crackling noise not usually associated with a quake."

Last night W. G. Milne, seismologist at the Dominion observatory, recalled that 12 to 18 months ago a mysterious blast broke windows in View Royal. Nothing was recorded on seismographs and there was no apparent cause.

Save Strathcona Park!

Slimy Chaos Alternative To Beauty

This is the last in a series of articles by Dr. Roderick Haig-Brown, famed Campbell River author and conservationist, protesting the case for protection of Buttle lake and Strathcona park from damage by power projects.

By RODERICK HAIG-BROWN

There are two alternatives in the future of Strathcona park and Buttle lake. The first is mud and slime, stumps and debris, chaos of logging, hazard of fire. It will be followed by years of blowdown creeping gradually back into the tall forest, creating new fire hazard, building into an increasing jackpot of logs and brush and second-growth.

It will mean destruction of natural spawning beds, flooding of flats that are life itself to the wintering elk herds, drowning of swamps and deciduous trees that are food for beaver and ruffed grouse. It will bring about an enormous and destructive change in every natural balance within the park boundaries.

The second alternative is an untouched, unchanged natural area, more beautiful than any other on the island, true to the original cycles and balances as no other area can ever be. And the difference between these two alternatives is something less than fifteen feet of water; perhaps less than ten feet.

If the lake and the park are saved, as they must be, what is their future?

It has been said many times in the present controversy that the Park is inaccessible, that the public cannot get into it. Only a few millionaires fly in there and keep it to themselves.

This is a lie. Until the old trail was logged over the park was always accessible to the public.

Even after that, people who had been going in for years continued to go in, over the abandoned railroad grades.

Within the past year or two, people have gone in by hundreds, over the narrow twisting logging road that is too often barred by gates. But all this is not the measure of the lie. The true measure of the lie is in the suggestion that any lake lying 30 miles back from salt water and only 700 feet above it could possibly be called inaccessible.

That is a lie so obvious that it should never have fooled anyone. But it has fooled people. Any government of the past 10 years awake to its responsibilities could have built a good road into the lake for less money than was spent on the old trail. And the people who foster the lie know this very well. If you don't choose to cross a street, it is true that you won't get to the other side; but that doesn't make it inaccessible.

Strathcona is the most readily accessible major park in British Columbia. Building a road into Buttle lake is a cheap and simple operation by any standards. It is long overdue and it is a natural first step in the development of the park. The present logging road is not a good enough entrance to a great provincial park, and the public must not be left dependent upon the good will of logging companies.

It is equally urgent that the park boundaries be changed to take in the full length of Buttle lake and at least part of the new lake that will be formed. This can easily be done by exchange of forest land, since there are valuable timber licences on the western slope of the park, beyond the high mountains, which could and should be re-

Promoted

COMMODORE J. B. CALDWELL

Naval headquarters in Ottawa last night announced the promotion of Capt. J. B. Caldwell, 41 of Amherst, N.S., to commodore. He becomes superintendent of HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, Monday when his promotion to the rank of commodore will take effect. He succeeds Commodore B. R. Spencer.

New March On Goa Planned

BOMBAY, India (Reuters)—Two hundred unarmed Indian volunteers were reported ready to cross the border into Portuguese Goa today in the wake of a wave of riots and strikes that followed a similar invasion last Sunday.

Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian leaders have demanded that Portugal give up the minute pocket areas.

Tiffany's Sell Whole Store

NEW YORK (UP)—Control of Tiffany & Co., famous jewelry firm founded 118 years ago with a $1,000 loan, was bought for $3,825,000 Thursday by its Fifth avenue next-door neighbor, the Bonwit Teller specialty store.

Druggists Warned Of Laxity

VANCOUVER (CP)—Federal authorities plan to crack down on illegal sale of prescription drugs by pharmacists, Dr. C. A. Morell said here Thursday.

In an address before the annual convention of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, the head of the food and drug directorate of the federal health department also said changes are expected to be made next year in the Proprietary and Patient Medicine Act.

DISREGARD

Dr. Morell said reports from health department inspectors indicated there was a "widespread disregard for prescription regulations in some of our larger cities."

He did not specify the cities involved other than to say the infractions "are not from Vancouver but from farther east."

Dr. Morell said reports were not complete enough to determine the full extent of the situation.

The federal official declined to reveal the nature of the planned crackdown but said:

ALL WE CAN

"We are going to do all we can to bring about a better regard for regulations under the Food and Drug Act."

He told his convention audience of the case of a woman who committed suicide in one large city, but kept the identity of the woman and the city involved secret.

With a prescription marked "no repeat" obtained in 1949 the woman had succeeded in getting the drug 72 times from five drug stores.

Jail Fugitives Still at Large

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (BUP) — The biggest manhunt ever staged in central British Columbia continued yesterday for four jail fugitives who walked out of the $500,000, week-old provincial prison here when the main door was left unlocked.

More than 15 RCMP officers and 24 jail guards threw up road blocks around the city in an effort to capture Lucien Auben, 33, Rene Cavellier, 29, Nicholas Maaking, 21, and Ewen McGowan, 21.

Soviet Assesses Canada

Litany of Libel Charged to Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada today accused Russia of deliberately giving a distorted and untrue picture of Canada in the latest edition of the "large Soviet encyclopaedia."

The charge was made in an article in the July-August edition of "External Affairs," a monthly bulletin issued by the external affairs department.

The article contains extracts from the new Russia encyclopaedia to enable Canadians to judge for themselves "the bias, not to mention the veracity, of this official picture of Canada presented to the Soviet reader in a government-sponsored publication."

Main contention in the six-page article on Canada in the Soviet encyclopaedia is that this country is dominated by capitalists who are under the thumb of United States imperialists. It says Canadian monopolies and the Liberal party want a third world war.

CANADIAN "FACTS"

Other "facts" about Canada in the Soviet encyclopaedia:

1. "The armed forces of Canada are formally a part of the armed forces of the British Empire but in fact are commanded by a defence committee responsible to the cabinet of ministers and working according to the directives and under the control of the committee of the chiefs of staff of the U.S.A."

2. Radio broadcasting in Canada is "entirely in the service of the Anglo-American imperialists."

3. The U.S. is winning a bitter struggle with the United Kingdom for control of the Canadian economy.

4. The Progressive Conservative party, as well as the Liberal party, is linked with Canadian monopoly capital while the CCF leans on the well-to-do farmer and the petty bourgeoisie.

5. "The curricula and methods of teaching in Canadian schools are ruled by American pedagogy."

6. Canadian courts carry out a policy of repression against the working masses.

7. Eskimos and Indians "are deprived of elementary civil rights, are cruelly exploited and subjected to racial discrimination . . ."

8. Canadian agriculture is dominated by banks which "seize farms under the guise of assistance via one-sided loans and then they expropriate the land and all the property of the farmers."

9. Official Canadian statistics are deliberately falsified.

Esquimalt Frigate Returning

OTTAWA (CP) — The frigate HMCS New Glasgow is now en route home to Esquimalt from Pearl Harbor and the whole matter of Canadian naval participation in the Far East is under study by the government, a naval spokesman said Thursday night.

The New Glasgow, recently refitted, left Pearl Harbor Tuesday where she had gone on a "working up cruise."

The destroyer Sioux is the lone remaining Canadian naval unit in the Far East of three destroyers Canada originally sent there at the outbreak of the Korean War. It has been reported that she probably will be withdrawn.

Townsend Talk Revived

Royal Family Silent

Princess Gossip Mounts as Crucial Birthday Nears

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Discussion of Princess Margaret's future burst into the open Thursday as, with the approach of her 25th birthday, British newspapers broke months of silence on the subject.

A profusion of front-page stories and feature articles speculated more frankly than ever before on her reported romance with a war-time air force hero who has had a divorce.

The sudden outburst keynoted a mounting atmosphere of public expectancy not unlike that of 1936, when King Edward VIII abdicated as a result of his association with Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

There's one big difference between then and now. In the royal crisis of 20 years ago, there was little doubt of Edward's feelings for Mrs. Simpson, divorced wife of a London business man.

Today, the Queen's younger sister remains silent behind the walls of Balmoral castle, leaving the nation to guess about her feelings for Group Capt. Peter Townsend, 40, the father of two young children.

Margaret's 25th birthday Sunday is the red-ringed day on the calendar because it is then she can marry without royal consent.

The Queen, no matter what her personal feelings might be, could never consent to marriage with someone who has been through the divorce court because she is head of the Church of England.

The church is strongly opposed to the remarriage of even the innocent party—like Townsend—in a divorce case.

Despite the rash of speculation, anyone who expects an official announcement about her wedding plans from Margaret almost as soon as the clock strikes midnight on the eve of her birthday is likely to be disappointed.

For one thing, announcements are seldom made from Balmoral, which the Royal Family like to regard as entirely their summer holiday home. For another, there are important and complicated constitutional snags to be overcome before the princess is free to marry, even after 25.

Under the Royal Marriages Act of 1782, she can give the Privy Council 12 months' notice of her desire to marry without the Queen's consent. The privy council is the country's top body of constitutional advisers.

If both houses of Parliament objected to the proposed marriage, the princess could not wed. Even if she tried to flout the law and go through a marriage ceremony, it would be declared null and void.

The Parliaments of any of the Commonwealth countries (except India, because it is a republic) could also object.

One thing is definitely known. None of the Commonwealth countries has been officially consulted so far about any intention of the princess to marry Group Captain Townsend—and these governments would be the first to be informed.

As Margaret's birthday draws near, the tone of speculation about the possibility of her marrying the handsome air hero is taking on a graver tone. Two years ago, when the gossip first started, there was a carefree, romantic note in the comment.

Now it is becoming realized just how serious a matter it would be if the princess—third in line to the throne—married without the consent of the Queen and the approval of the church.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THREE men and a boy grabbed my arms and legs and forced me into a stock car at Western Speedway the other night.

They were persuading me to rehearse for a press-radio race which is to give comic relief on the speedway program next Saturday.

Several other novices stood around with broad sickly grins as I tumbled through the window of the car (most stock cars have the doors welded shut), and landed head-first with a clank on the metal floor.

They had already tucked me into a crash helmet, to prevent my head from knocking dents in the walls of my mobile coffin. The stock car boys are very fussy about their machines.

"Well, here goes," I said, biting the tip off my tongue as I flashed a daredevil grin. I tramped the accelerator down. I smelled the dust and fumes. I thought I heard the crowd yelling, and then a squeal of brakes—look out, look OUT!

"All right, you can open your eyes, Mortimore," said a man in coveralls. "Fasten the seat belt. We're going to start the motor now."

I have too much imagination to make good as a stock car driver. Being a coward is a handicap, too.

* * *

In actual fact they gave me a ride as a passenger before they put a car in command of me. I crouched on my haunches with all my fingers embedded in the metal as the car zoomed down the straightaway.

* * *

For a fleeting instant I reflected that it was sad for a young man like the driver to be seized by a fit of violent madness. He was steering a course directly toward a grove of trees at the end of the track.

I was just going to try to calm him with a well-chosen word (such as "Help!") when he jammed the controls hard over and began to fly upside down. Anyway, that was how it felt.

I had to reach up and pull back the top of my skull, which was slowly rising through the escape hatch.

We flew around the track a few times in that fashion, and then the driver said he was going to stop and let me drive. "Watch out, you're landing downwind," I yelled. But he took no notice.

* * *

Presently I was behind the wheel and he was at my side urging me to push the gas to the floor and hold it there until I almost hit the turn. I tried to obey, but my foot had other ideas. All its driving life that foot had been jumping off the accelerator at the approach of a curve. It wasn't going to change its safety habits for anyone.

So I slowed down far too soon, and it wasn't until a small boy spectator walked past me on a curve that I began feeling ashamed and poured on a little power. After a while only the kids on bicycles were passing me.

* * *

But I gained confidence when they let me drive around the track on my own, and presently four of us lined up for a practice race.

I took an early lead—or to be more exact, the starter gave me a lead at the starting post.

Excitement ran high when a radio character called Doug MacFarland crept up and passed me after a desperate battle. It didn't run quite so high when he passed me again, and when he passed me for the third time it had become routine. Still, what's a two-lap lead to a dauntless driver?

Then I gave her the gun. Zoom! I passed MacFarland. Zom! I passed him again. Zeeem! I passed him for the third time, as though he was standing still. Come to think of it, he was standing still.

"Stop, you fool," someone yelled. "The race was over long ago. You've driven three laps too far."

* * *

Actually, however, I had come in second, by one whole lap.

My wife was in the stand with the little boy. The boy stared uncomprehendingly at the helmet. "I want to see my daddy," he said.

"That is your daddy," the boy's mother pointed out.

"No, that's a man," said the boy. "I want to drive a funny car."

"How did I make out?" I asked.

"All right, I suppose," said my wife thoughtfully. "By the way, that insurance policy of yours is double indemnity, isn't it?"

Commission Recommends Rezoning

Residents of Oak Bay Score Apartment Influx

Oak Bay residents scored "infiltration" by apartments into residential areas last night at a public meeting called by the municipal council to discuss a Town Planning Commission recommendation to rezone a residential block for apartment construction.

Council said that separate applications had been received from C. E. Moore and Vernon Jackson for rezoning a portion of the block owned by the two applicants.

The planning commission studied the applications and recommended rezoning the entire block to keep in line with a policy which does not favor "spot zoning."

W. H. M. Haldane, QC, of 2390 San Carlos, who said he represented a number of residents of the area in question, argued that if the original zoning by-law was good at all it shouldn't be changed unless for a good reason. But if it was no good, he said, "a glue factory might as well be built on Oak Bay drive."

Reeve Fred Norris pointed out that the long-range plan was to develop apartment areas gradually.

"I can't agree that zoning either is or isn't good originally," the reeve said. "But there must be flexibility for change with progress."

INCREASE CONGESTION

Mr. Haldane said that apartment dwellings invading the area would increase traffic congestion leading to "distraction in a quiet residential section of Oak Bay." He added that the block was one of the last seafront residential areas in the municipality that hadn't been rezoned.

Condemning the "infiltration," he told council that "once this is started, reeve and council could not refuse extension of apartment block rezoning.

One of the applicants, Mr. Moore, explained to council that his application was only for a portion of the block which, he said, was acceptable to nearby residents before the commission recommendation. He said that an apartment would not increase traffic to the point of congestion.

Council, after discussing the by-law in private as a committee-of-the-whole, decided to send it back to the planning commission for further consideration.

Slimy Chaos Sure If Dam Goes Ahead leased into management licences or working circles.

Additional funds realized from this must be earmarked to pay for the road and other developments.

At the end of the road a concession will be granted for boat rental and for a lodge and cabins, to be built under supervision of the Parks Division. Development farther up the lake should move more slowly; safe and simple campsites near the best beaches are the first obvious need.

Trails should be built on the west side of the lake up Wolf, Phillips and Myra creeks to the alpine country around the Golden Hinde. On the east side of the lake it is a relatively simple matter to build a trail up Shepherd's creek and Ralph creek into the Forbidden Plateau. And sooner or later there will certainly be a road through the pass from Price creek, at the head of the lake, to the Albernis.

This is a skelton plan of simple and low cost development that would give Vancouver Island its first and only large scale park. Within two or three years of such development the park would be used by thousands of people and other development would follow logically.

Buttle lake, with Myra Falls and the magnificent timber flats at Marble, Wolf, Phillips and other creek mouths, is far and away the greatest attraction in the park, as well as its only logical route of access. But there is an infinity of lesser attractions—Flower Ridge, Marble Mountain and Marble lakes, the Golden Hinde and a dozen other great peaks, to name only a few of them—which would eventually be opened up.

All this depends on preserving the shoreline of Buttle Lake. There is not one park expert in Canada who can honestly say that the true possibilities of the park can be realized if flooding takes place. The moment a clearing axe is laid to the first tree something wonderful and irreplaceable will be lost forever.

No park official will say this. None will be allowed to. I learned long ago from a great Chief Forester of this province, the late E. C. Manning, that civil servants must always suffer in silence under errors of government policy, however serious; the only alternative is resignation and leaving the affair to some lesser man who will say what he is told to say. If this was true in Manning's day, it is equally true today. The public must judge for itself and speak for itself to have a hope of having its birthright.

And what is it all about? A few thousand horsepower in a total of over a quarter of a million. Nature provided a 400-foot head at Elk Falls. The commission has taken 58 feet of storage at Lower Campbell Lake. It will be taking another 120 feet or more at Upper Campbell and Buttle.

Do we have to crawl on our hands and knees and beg for just ten or twelve feet of this massive storage to save Strathcona park? Is there not one man in the provincial cabinet with the vision to measure ten feet of water storage against the only wilderness park on Vancouver Island? Is nothing left of the dream men dreamed in 1911, now that it is within reach of realization?

Talk can go on forever. It surely will, if the shoreline of Buttle lake is desecrated. No torrents of talk can change it, nor the dismal figures of a hundred engineers. Ten feet of storage, a few miserable kilowatts of electricity, expendable in neon signs, against the only wilderness park, the only unravaged lakeshore on Vancouver Island.

We may be a materialistic people, living in a materialistic age, caring little for anything beyond our own time. But surely we can afford this one tiny gesture of generosity to the future, and leave Strathcona park untouched. All the electric power in the world can never build anything like it again.

Passion Flower Excellent Value

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When we moved into our present home some years ago, my wife made a few quick passes at the inside of the house and presto—it was furnished very comfortably. The outside walls proved to be a bit more of a problem.

One wall in particular, facing south, was a vast expanse of ugly stucco, unrelieved by anything at all. Something had to be done to dress it up. I weighed and considered the merits of every vine in the book, and finally plumped for the blue passion flower, Passiflora caerulea. I have never regretted my choice.

GOOD VALUE

I bought the plant at a stall in the city market for $2.50, and in all my life I never got so much for my money. The rate of growth was fantastic and reminded me of the old fairy story about the wicked old man who was trapped inside his own house by a vine planted by a good fairy. He couldn't get out because the vine grew twice as fast as he could chop it down. That's my passion flower.

It was about a foot high when I bought it and set it out in April—just a rooted cutting in a flower pot—and by fall it had reached a height of 12 feet, spreading widely across the stucco wall. In spite of hard pruning, it is up to the roof now, and the wall is completely covered.

To support that kind of rapid growth, the plant has to have lots of good stuff in the planting site. I took out a big hole at the foot of the wall about a yard square and two feet deep. The sides and bottom of the pit were lined with old slabs of turf, grass side down, and the site filled with a mixture of rich, sandy loam, old stable manure, half a bucketful of coarse bone meal and a bucketful of wood ashes.

PINCH OUT TIPS

A series of galvanized iron wires were arranged in a fan shape on the wall, strung between eye bolts, and held out from the wall by about an inch and a half. The long, springy tendrils of the vine cling tenaciously to these wires. It is a simple matter to produce lots of side shoots by pinching out the tips of the main branches, and these are trained along the wires to cover the wall completely. On August, every leaf axil produces one of the glorious blue flowers.

The blue passion flower is not entirely hardy, and I have had the upper part of the vine killed back several times by severe frosts. However, the lower parts have never failed to produce enough new growth early in the season to take over the space. The only pest which has ever bothered my vine was one attack of red spider mites, always a hazard for plants growing against dry, sun-baked walls, but these were easily controlled with Malathion spray.

First Try in Cold Strait Was Enough for Rivette

Douglas Rivette had his first and last fling at Juan de Fuca strait early today.

His body numbed after 2½ hours in the icy water in an attempt to swim to Port Angeles, the 44-year-old, deaf-mute linotype operator wrote on a slate after he was pulled aboard his navigation boat that the cold water shortened his breath, which hampered his crawl stroke.

Rivette, a resident of Vancouver, had swum five miles, but was only three miles from Victoria when he gave up. Strong tides had carried him off course.

Swimming with him for about half an hour was Johnny Flower, 35, former India Olympic trials swimmer, who plans to make his own assault on the strait next week. Rivette's navigator, Alf Webb, will also plot the course for Flower.

BERT TRIES TODAY

Ogopogo still rules the waves of Lake Okanagan, but his reign may end soon.

Juan de Fuca strait conqueror Bert Thomas, who quit after 2½ hours in choppy water Wednesday, plans to try the 35-mile swim from Kelowna to Penticton again at 10 p.m., today, trainer Ove Witt disclosed last night.

Thomas has been guaranteed $1,000 if he starts with an extra $200 if he finishes. If weather is bad, he may try during the week-end.

Mrs. Laura Ouillette, 35-year-old Summerland hairdresser who tried the swim yesterday "just for fun," was forced to stop after covering less than 14 miles in 15 hours and 22 minutes. Funds started during the swim brought her about $1,200.

Kathie McIntosh, 20-year-old Winnipeg stenographer, came within five miles of swimming the 18 miles last Sunday before the prize was offered.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Six persons may tackle Lake Winnipeg within the next two days in an attempt to win $1,000 offered by a Winnipeg radio station for the first person to swim across the lower end of the lake.

Building Program For Escort Ships Faces New Delays

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's defence "stretch out" has embraced Canada's $210,000,000 destroyer escort shipbuilding program, it was learned Thursday. It may take another three years or more before the last of the 14 submarine chasers are in the navy's hands.

But the navy appears to be none too concerned. An authority said highly-trained crews will be required to man the new, radar-loaded ships and this training could not be completed in a short time.

Each ship, 366 feet long and with a 2,000-ton displacement, will have a crew of 270 officers and men. The first, the St. Laurent, now is undergoing builder's trials and may be commissioned in October.

The last of them, which the navy had anticipated might be in their hands by 1957, will not be ready for commissioning until possibly late in 1958. The new target is on the basis that there will be no further major changes in the ships which have been plagued by persistent production delays and mounting costs.

COST FIGURE BOOSTED

The original estimate of $8,000,000 each was boosted last year to $15,000,000. Defence production officials said this is the current cost for each ship. The estimate will remain at that figure unless there are some major building changes.

The original target was to deliver six of the ships by 1956 and the other eight by 1957. Now the navy does not expect to get more than about three or four by 1956.

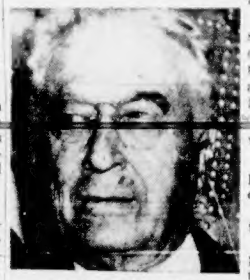

An informant said the key to production is in delivery of the engines and gearboxes to the Canadian shipyards producing the craft.

If pressed, the John Inglis plant at Toronto could step up production of the power units by putting workers on a round-the-clock work schedule.

But world tension has eased. Informants said there is not the same urgent need for the craft.

Baruch at 85 Still Robust

NEW YORK (UP)—Bernard M. Baruch, elder statesman extraordinary, rounds out 85 robust years with his birthday today.

BERNARD BARUCH

Hoping to catch some health secrets from the man whose only complaint this year was that he twisted his back doing a back dive, a reporter phoned him.

Reporter—Mr. Baruch, to what do you attribute . . . ?

Reporter—You mean, pick the right parents?

Baruch—Yes. I mean your parentage. But you can help that along if you take care of yourself.

Ten Camps Accommodate 9,000 Scouts

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Scout Christopher (Kit) Dark of Broadstairs, Kent, England, summed up tersely the spirit that has taken over this historic mile-square bit of Ontario:

"Look," he said, declining an invitation to be elsewhere today, "I came here to be out at the jamboree and enjoying scouting."

Of the 9,000 boys and leaders already here for the eighth World Scout Jamboree opening Saturday, Chris had been singled out to share Toronto's tribute today to Canada's darling—Channel and Lake Ontario swimmer Marilyn Bell.

Great open spaces in this reserve army training area, on the Niagara river near Lake Ontario, filled in Thursday as bus after bus, and even a lake steamer, disgorged 6,000 scouts who speedily set about pitching camp.

With impressive efficiency the the scouts are met by two teams, one to handle personnel, the other baggage. A fleet of 80 busses has been mobilized from public transport companies in the Niagara peninsula.

National contingents are dispersed among 10 sub-camps named after Canadian geographical sections but which speedily became cosmopolitan centre as the scouts —from 57 countries and speaking 20 languages—poured in.

C. Jackson Dodds of Montreal, deputy chief scout for Canada and jamboree camp chief, arrived during the day.

Eight quiet-spoken Arctic boys agreed Thursday that dog sleds may be slower than planes and trains but they give a smoother ride.

It is their first trip into civilization and they were not over-communicative Thursday about their impressions. Andrew, dark-skinned with glossy black hair, has already decided, however, to pass up chances to visit Toronto and Montreal before returning to Aklavik.

He's going to Edmonton after the jamboree closes, Aug. 28, to see his brother James, 19, in hospital there with TB.

Jailbird Gets Canary

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jack Benson figures a bird in the hand is worth two in Columbus, Ohio, his home town. So he wrote home for his canary.

It arrived Wednesday, but an express man had a hard time finding 123 West Third street, Benson's address here.

Finally he saw jailer Ed Maher sitting in front of the county jail. The express man asked, and was informed by Maher that 123 West Third street was the jail.

"Do you have a Jack Benson here?" asked the express man.

"Yes, he's in jail," Maher replied.

Benson got the bird after paying $3.70 express charges—in cash.

He is being held on a bad-cheque charge.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, August 18th—I'm devoted to a couple of charming gentlemen who stand for a noble tradition of coffee-making—Mr. Chase and Mr. Sanborn. The delicious INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE we enjoy today is a product of the 100 years "Know-How" back of this fine old House. But to listen to Mr. Chase you'd think the perfection of this coffee lay in "My matchless brewing." To which Mr. Sanborn replies gently but equally determined, "It's the top quality beans I insist on that explain the true secret!" Taste Instant Chase & Sanborn yourself—and I think you'll agree it's beans—and brewing—plus a century of experience!

One Thing Our Family Does—in these precious summer evenings, is to rinse and stack the dinner dishes—then whip through them with the breakfast dishes in the morning before we leave for work or play! It's so simple now that we use the wonder-working GAY liquid detergent. Because Gay makes dishwashing so much easier! Just fill the cap of the bottle—and you've exactly the right amount. (One bottle does fifty dishwashings!) You'll like the way your dishes, silver and glassware sparkle . . . you'll be happy to see how gentle Gay is on your hands. I find so many women I meet who feel just as pleased with Gay as we are. Do try it!

These Warm Days . . . make burning corns or calluses more difficult than ever! But, believe me, you'll find that BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters get rid of corns fast—and bring you such quick and blessed relief that you'll feel like a new woman! The exclusive medication, Phenylium, gets right down under your corn and helps push it out from underneath. Thousands of men and women are using Blue-Jay day by day—and finding a new comfort and freedom from bothersome foot troubles. In actual tests, Blue-Jay went to work faster and more surely than other leading remedies. Let them do that for you!

How Goes It With You—and your baby, at meal-times? It can be such a joyous time . . . when the little one is healthy and hungry and chuckling with pleasure over such a delight as AYLMER Strained Bartlett Pears . . . There's nothing better for a baby that's starting solid food . . . for these Bartlett Pears are consistently fine and smooth . . . Aylmer adds just a little sugar—and nothing else—to the fully-ripe Bartlett Pears so that it's really perfect food for your babe . . . convenient to use, and low in cost. And another point, Aylmer's Certified Baby Foods are made for Canadian babies right here in Canada by a Canadian Company.

"And You Warned Me!" . . . It was said to me the young bride's dismay when she came home from her first holiday to find the house had been broken into—and her priceless wedding treasures—stolen! Worst of it was that her father had urged her, over and over, to rent a Safety Deposit Box at the BANK OF MONTREAL. For less than two cents a day you can keep your precious papers, jewelry, and other valuables—safe from loss, theft, fire or accident! More and more, I find, people are realising the basic good sense of renting a B of M Safety Deposit Box. Why not check with your own B of M manager?

Carelessness! . . . in personal daintiness can be so disastrous in these hot-weather days. That's why it's so wise to use ARRID . . . the pure, white, vanishing cream deodorant, made now, with a new and safe, exclusive ingredient, Perstop. You can be poised and fresh all the time with Arrid. Just rub Arrid in—rub odour out . . . stops both perspiration and odour for 1 to 3 days. It's antiseptic; won't dry out in the jar; and deodorises instantly. More Canadians use Arrid than any other deodorant. Only 59c a jar.

I Had A Celebration . . . yesterday, and served the family favorite—Banana Cream Pie, made with ROYAL INSTANT PUDDING. If you haven't tasted the delight of this exclusive new flavor which Royal Instant has created—take my tip—and order it today! This Instant Banana Cream Pudding and Pie Filling—is as freshly flavored as if you'd just sliced the bananas . . . It's creamy and smooth to the taste—because it's super-homogenised . . . is 'specially light, fluffy and easy to digest. And while you're ordering the Banana Cream—get the new Strawberry Cream Instant Pudding—they're both delicious either as a pudding, or a pie filling!

The Prisoner's Dilemma

IN a code touching on a matter that affects servicemen of all the Western nations the U.S. government has set out rules of conduct for American fighting men who may be taken prisoner of war. In the main it merely emphasizes what has always been the obligation resting on such captives; namely, to disclose nothing beyond bare details of name, rank, etc. The new pledge to be taken by each member of the U.S. armed forces still leaves unanswered the dilemma of a prisoner who may be bedevilled beyond his own understanding.

American concern, and it is one that Canada shares, is the result of the inhuman "brainwashing" tactics of Red China in dealing with prisoners in its hands. All civilized nations observe the conventions that proscribe unfair treatment of prisoners of war but in this respect Communist China is far from civilized; it might well be a condition of its entry into the UN, when that day comes, that Red China should pledge its solemn word to adhere to such conventions.

The code stresses the loyalty a serviceman owes to the country whose uniform he wears at the time of capture, including the keeping of faith with one's fellow prisoners; this because of some recent instances where servicemen betrayed their comrades to curry favor with their captors. Always there are a few weak characters who succumb in this manner. It also affirms that a serviceman will resist illegal questioning "to the utmost of my ability."

Unfortunately this leaves the situation where it was before. Officers and men of unquestioned personal loyalty and integrity have resisted mental and physical torture to the utmost of their ability, as recent events have made public to all, but without avail. They have been subject to psychological pressures undreamt of by those without such dreadful experience and so powerful as to addle their wits into the "confession" of military crimes they did not commit. The diabolical practices of Red China have unmanned some of the strongest of men.

It would seem patent in fact that many of the recently released batch of American prisoners resisted to the point where mentally they did not know clearly what was happening. They could have shown no greater stoicism than they did. According to military precepts their submission cannot be condoned, but it was brought about by such inhuman means they can scarcely be blamed for finally breaking down. The new code may stiffen resolution afresh among U.S. servicemen and remind them that "no surrender" is their basic duty under all circumstances. That is all, and perhaps nothing more can be contured to their aid. While Red China is Red China however it is a case of God help the serviceman unlucky enough to fall into its hands.

TUC and the Public

REALIZATION of the harmful effects that strikes in essential utilities, directly involving a relatively small number of workers, can have on trade union members in general appears to have dawned upon the powerful Trades Union Congress of the United Kingdom. The TUC has now informed the British minister of labor, Sir Walter Monckton, that it proposes to take "appropriate action" to prevent nation-wide strikes such as those which paralyzed British railways and docks a short time.

This is a most significant development in union policy, and also compelling evidence of the influence of public opinion in restraining organized labor from carrying strike action to excesses injurious to the public as a whole. The TUC, in the reasons it has conveyed to the minister for its decision to curb attempts to stop work in major service industries, acknowledges its belief that such strikes are harmful to the national economy. The truth of this was borne out by the serious consequences of the recent strikes not only to normal domestic employment and production but also to the United Kingdom's export trade.

Equally interesting also is the TUC's expressed view that strikes of that type and magnitude should not be permitted because they "irritate the public." Public exasperation sufficiently aroused can, as the congress recognizes, compel the government to impose restraints by law on the unions themselves. That is an eventuality which the TUC seeks to avoid, and as an alternative to direct governmental restriction of union activities it prefers to offer its services in labor disputes in an effort to effect settlement without recourse to labor's final resort.

In this decision publicly conveyed to the minister there is manifested a growth of wisdom which it is hoped may one day spread to this side of the Atlantic, where there are recurring instances of major strikes cutting off the earnings of workers outnumbering many times those directly connected with the disputes.

Job for Service Police

WHERE there are concentrations of servicemen in the vicinity of a city there is bound to be a bit of trouble on the streets during leave hours. Men who wear the uniform nowadays are infinitely better behaved than those of a generation or two ago, who used to turn the streets of dockyard and garrison towns into places to be avoided after dark. There are always a few, however, who kick over the traces and fall foul of the authorities.

In this respect recent increases in the numbers of servicemen stationed near Victoria have been causing extra work for the civilian police, and there is warrant for the city police commission's request that the services undertake a larger share of the duty of maintaining order. No doubt some workable plan will emerge from the conference which Chief Constable Blackstock is to have with officials of the navy and army.

This seems preferable to action on an earlier suggestion that the Department of National Defence be asked to station a detachment of the provost corps in Victoria. That course does not appear necessary in the present circumstances, and could create an unfortunate impression that the general behavior of servicemen is much worse than is really the case.

Strengthening of naval shore patrols and military police not only should relieve the local police of extra work for which the force is insufficiently staffed but should save the time of the courts. Action along that line would also be much better for the servicemen themselves. There are some cases involving navy and army men which would have to be turned over to the civil authorities in any event, but most minor disturbances could be dealt with more conveniently and effectively under the normal processes of military discipline, and without the unfortunate publicity accompanying arraignment before a magistrate.

So far as a man's advancement in the service is concerned, conviction by a civil court for an offence committed while in uniform is usually regarded more seriously by his superiors than an entry in his "crime" sheet containing the familiar preamble, "Conduct to the prejudice . . ." Allowances have to be made for the fact that most of these lads are far from home, and no reasonable person would wish to see them hauled before the bench for offences which could be dealt with just as effectively by their commanding officers.

Interpreting the News

The New Prisoner Code

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

AS a legal document, "the U.S. Defence Department's new code for prisoners of war is open to many interpretations.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if it will have any great effect on the tiny percentage of men who fall for brainwashing or just plain self-seeking as prisoners.

The same committee which devised the code produces the statistics which give a clue to what really happens when thousands of men are made captive in a situation such as obtained during the Korean War.

Of 7,190 Americans captured, 2,730 died—nearly 40 per cent. Most deaths were from ill-treatment, poor food and lack of medical care. The conditions of the men when they arrived in the camps can be deduced from the fact that 500 died in "death marches" between capture and arrival.

It is obvious that few among the remainder were in mental or physical condition to resist pressure in any form. Yet nearly all of them did.

Those who did not presented a serious problem to the armed forces. There was not only the question of what to do with them. There was also the problem of how to cut to a minimum the possibility that such men would convey vital information to the enemy in the future, or lower the morale of other prisoners by toadying to the enemy.

The view of some, that it would be better to let prisoners talk, with the world being informed in advance that they will do so and nothing they say is to be taken seriously, was put aside by the committee.

For the class of prisoner who breaks under coercion and torture, the code will mean hardly anything.

For those who act treacherously toward fellow prisoners, they would most likely be criminals in any surroundings, and the promise of punishment probably will deter them about as much as any other law.

The chief force of the code probably lies in its emphasis on not getting captured to begin with. Its chief benefit is to co-ordinate service policies.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WITH your permission I shall attend to my fences, as the politicians say; that is, deal with some mail that eyes me with silent rebuke.

To begin with, a Ripon Road man defines a touch typist as one who doesn't have to think of copy—an automaton transcribing without mental effort. By contrast, he says, the hunt-and-peck system gives time for re-phrasing as the brain brings forth its theme.

I wish I could agree with him—I'd then feel at lot happier.

A correspondent complains about books that omit the date of publication, saying: "It is annoying to say the least." It certainly is, especially if you have a volume so esoteric and ancient you think it must be worth a small fortune. What a letdown when you discover it's not so rare as you thought! While they are at it, too, publishers might well eschew Roman numerals when dating their books. How that empire lingers.

* * *

Another reader who says she is now an "old woman"—(her pen is fresh and lively)—was pleased to have a word said in praise of cricket. She has seen many matches in England and Africa and in early happy days all her sons were cricketers. I'm glad to have brought back fond memories.

* * *

Sometimes Welsh folk ask me to remember their birthplace. Well, I came across something recently that should perk them up, to wit: That a Welsh prince discovered America three centuries before Columbus!

He was Prince Madoc, a member of the family of Owain Gwynedd, a famous chieftain of North Wales who flourished around 1100-70. According to legend he and some companions on their second voyage to the New World settled there and became the ancestors of a large tribe of fair-haired, blue-eyed "Indians" with a strong mixture of Welsh words in their speech. There are numerous books touching on the subject.

There are estimated to be about five million people of Welsh descent in the United States (not all Indians of course), and incidentally the captain of the Mayflower was a Welshman. The famous Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City stems from a small group of Welsh glee singers who were active in the early days of that church.

Dutifully awed, a Linden Avenue lady writes: "A newspaper is a wonderful production. What other commodity requires such manifold pains, thought and exaction as the composition, from the one end to the other, of a daily paper? I never cease to marvel at the best bargain in the world—the brawn and brain of specified men concentrated in a specified number of paper pages and peddled to the public at seven cents per copy."

You all agree with this sentiment, I hope.

* * *

On this subject the same lady asks: "In newspaper parlance what is a tabloid? To my knowledge it is a medicated troche."

It is that too, but you know how accommodating is the English language; it lends itself to all sorts of things. Originally the word tabloid was coined by an English firm 180 years ago) as a trade-mark term for its goods, some of them compounds in compressed form. Gradually the word was applied to anything concise or condensed. Gertrude Atherton in "The Conqueror" (1902) wrote: "To condense Hamilton is much like attempting to increase the density of a stone, or to reduce the alphabet to a tabloid."

In the newspaper world the term is used in relation to a publication smaller than standard size and generally of more sensational content.

From a Langford resident comes a clipping about a man who promised a girl he'd take her to a Scottish dance in Scotland, but he slipped up badly. He skirled with her on the Castle esplanade, and as most of you know this esplanade isn't in Scotland but in Canada. The deed that declared it to be Nova Scotian territory (way back in 16 something), so that certain baronets could take legal possession of their distant lands and swear fealty on its soil, has never been rescinded.

Just the same if as a Canadian the next time you are over there you are tempted to set up, say, a hot-dog stand on the esplanade I think you should mind your "ps" and "qs". The policeman on the beat might not be well up on his history.

EXTENDED RANGE

International Commentary . . .

For Under-Developed Countries

By W. N. EWER, from London

THIS summer's session of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations — usually for brevity's sake called ECOSOC — was much overshadowed by other events in Geneva. It could hardly compete in public interest with either the four-power "summit" meeting or with the conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

It is perhaps regrettable that the process of peaceful co-operation between nations, when not made exciting by such themes as atomic power or rocket satellites, is apt to make dull reading. It does not "hit the headlines." It produces neither deadlocks nor crises, nor their breaking. It is in its nature somewhat humdrum. But that does not make it unimportant.

ECOSOC cannot of course make binding decisions. Decisions on economic and social policies are for member governments and their parliaments. Under the charter of the United Nations its function is to "make recommendations with respect to international economic, social, cultural, educational, health and related matters."

Inevitably there can be wide gaps between the making of such recommendations and their implementation by member governments. So the value of discussions in council meetings lies perhaps not so much in the recommendations which are made, either unanimously or by a majority, as in the opportunity which it affords for the exchange of views and information on a wide and varied range of subjects which come up for consideration.

* * *

What were the oustanding topics at this 20th session of the council? That must be a matter of opinion. But I should be inclined to give first place to a subject which is much in mind everywhere today — international co-operation in the economic development of "under-developed" countries. Discussions on this theme were, I think, especially valuable, not because they resulted in agreement, but precisely because they stressed the intricate and difficult nature of the practical problems involved.

It is universally agreed that the economic development of these countries is of first importance not only for their own sakes but for the general wellbeing of all countries. It is universally agreed that for the time being they need assistance, both financial and technical, from countries able to provide it. But how, at whose expense, in what forms, and through what machinery is such assistance to be provided? The problems are very different from those which Marshall Aid was devised to solve and did very largely solve. Then it was a question of restoring the war-shattered and war-disclocated economies of European countries and of keeping them going while they were rebuilding themselves. It was a short-term operation of which the cost was limited and calculable. Thanks to the imagination and the generosity of the government and the people of the United States, the operation was possible and successful.

* * *

But this question of the under-developed countries is quite another one. To increase their productivity, both agricultural and industrial, to a level at which it can provide a higher standard of living for the great and increasing populations is both a long-term and a formidable task. Foreign aid can only help to a comparatively small extent. It cannot effect miracles. The amount of their own production which even the richest countries can divert to this purpose is necessarily limited.

That is one point which both the British and the American representatives had to make when the proposal of economic development was discussed. They reminded the council that in various ways both their countries were already making considerable contributions. For the United States, Mr. Baker recalled that the president had asked Congress for $1,400,000,000 for assistance to under-developed countries. In the present conditions neither could contribute to a new fund. If disarmament eased existing burdens, more might be possible.

Nor, though he supported the idea of a special fund, was the Soviet representative more forthcoming. Russia could contribute machinery, equipment and spare parts. But Mr. Kumykin insisted this could not be as grants in aid but only as long-term loans. It was a remark which coming from a Soviet delegate would have sounded surprising, say, 30 years ago.

* * *

"SUNFED" without big contributions from the great powers would clearly be illusory. But the proposal raised another point. Is there not danger of unduly multiplying the number of organizations dealing with this question? There is the Colombo Plan Organization. There is United States economic aid. There is the international bank. There is the proposed international finance corporation. There are the funds voted by the U.K. Parliament under the Colonial Development and Welfare Act. There is a considerable, though inadequate, amount of private investment. This seems a case of improving co-ordination between the existing bodies rather than creating new ones.

The impression which it all leaves on my mind is that, agreed though we all are on the need for economic assistance to the under-developed countries, there has to be a lot more hard and clear thinking on the ways and means by which this is to be done. If this ECOSOC meeting stimulates that it will have served a very valuable purpose.

Upward With the Arts

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THERE is a movie going the rounds these days that brings out the censor in us. We hold little brief for censors, they being concerned usually with the depth of a lady's neckline instead of the depth of stupidity or immorality of a screen writer.

But in this movie ("Love Me or Leave Me") we and are children are invited to believe that it is quite okay for a tough-minded night-club promoter to wait at the door of his estranged wife and pump two shots of lead into the back of her admiring (but un-sinning) music director.

It is premeditated and intended murder, despite the fact that the musician survives. But Hollywood realized it couldn't hang the popular James Cagney so it fixes things so that he and his underworld cronies "spring" him from jail and from there he goes directly to his night-club and becomes a hero to all concerned, seemingly forgiven by his wife and the most coveted "find" for the autograph hunters and press reporters. The picture ends by giving the impression that Cagney will go on to greater popularity and greater rewards, not one of which will be his rightful one: the electric chair.

The theory is: "Okay, so he tried to murder the guy, but he was jealous, wasn't he? And anyway the guy didn't die, so what?"

This, we presume, is onward and upward with the arts, Hollywood style. We find it not amusing but outrageous. Justification and glorification of murder through so influential a medium is surely contrary to all reason and has nothing to do with freedom of speech or artistic licence. Hollywood should display a greater sense of responsibility and maturity. Some measure of Canadian censorship—or at least a formal protest as a warning for the future—is in order.

The tramp entered the doctor's office. He looked worried.

"Doctor," he said, "you've got to help me. I swallowed a silver dollar about 15 years ago."

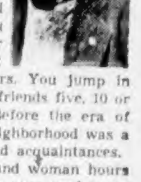

"Good heavens, man!" ejaculated the doctor. "Why didn't you go to to doctor the day you swallowed the coin?"

"To tell the truth," replied the tramp, "I didn't need the money at the time."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THE world may be growing more socialistic but it is definitely growing less sociable. Most of the important inventions of the past 40 years incline men and women to live unto themselves and apart from their neighbors.

The motor car has destroyed what you might call neighborhood. You do not any longer have to be content with your neighbors. You jump in your car and visit friends five, 10 or 30 miles distant. Before the era of the motor car a neighborhood was a circle of friends and acquaintances.

The man hours and woman hours now spent in motor cars used to be spent either at home or in the homes of friends. And speaking of man hours and woman hours, how, before the arrival of the movie theatre, did men and women spend the millions of man and woman hours now spent in the dark and lonely isolation of the movie?

The radio and TV make for isolation too. People are content to stay home to be entertained who formerly visited one another, held euchre parties, bridge parties, dances or just plain neighborly get-togethers. We may even resent the intrusion of visitors on a good TV night.

An astonishing manifestation of this anti-sociable trend is to be seen at young people's dances. The elder generation were familiar with a pretty little thing called a dance program. It was a dainty small folded card, with a tiny colored pencil attached to it with a silken string. When we took our girl to a dance, our most important duty was to fill her program with the names of the most interesting and exciting gentlemen at the party. If we danced twice with the girl we took to the party, we were lucky. The belle of the ball was the girl whose program listed all the most attractive men at the party. The mirror on a girl's dresser was festooned with these dance programs, trophies of the past season's successes.

The dance program is extinct. Young people go in pairs to dances now, and drearily dance with each other—or at most with another couple—the whole unsociable night through.

Industry Skeleton, Shipping Done, Ship Workers Declare in Brief

By BILL MAYOR

A Royal Commission on coastal shipping trade will be told by a joint labor representation that in 10 years west coast shipbuilding has become a "skeleton industry" and that merchant shipping has "petered out."

A brief prepared by shipyard workers quotes figures showing that the number of workers employed in west coast yards has dwindled to 3,405 from 19,127, and that five shipyards have closed.

John Bruce, Canadian chief of the Plumbers' Union at Toronto, will present the brief in Victoria Aug. 29.

The brief was prepared by Victoria Metal Trades Council, Vancouver Metal Trades, and the Shipyard General Workers' Federation.

Leading among many recommendations is a suggestion for legislation to restrict the coastal trade to vessels built, owned and registered in Canada.

Unionists who helped prepare the brief state they feel this recommendation would do the most to improve the industry.

They also seek establishment of federal subsidies for shipbuilding, based on the excess of Canadian over United Kingdom shipbuilding costs.

Provision that assistance given ship owners be made conditional and that all repairs be carried out in Canadian ports, is also asked.

Also sought is a review of the effect of government trade policies on the volume of trade from Far East nations on trans-Pacific shipping from B.C. ports.

The brief opens with a statement 10 years ago by the late Hon. Ian A. MacKenzie that "Canada is in the shipbuilding industry for good."

The unionists contend that "experience is sadly at variance with this forecast" and state that employment has dwindled to 3,405 persons.

The brief states that during these years exports have trebled but "shipbuilding has dwindled to a skeleton industry and merchant shipping has petered out altogether."

The U.S. and U.K. have held their own in these industries and there has been an increase by Panama, Japan and Greece, countries which obtained an initial benefit by purchasing, under favorable terms, a large portion of the Canadian and American war surplus fleet, the Brief states.

Such sales were in name only, it adds. Buyers were American or British subsidiaries using foreign registry as a means of operating under conditions of cheap labor.

Paralyzed Young Lad Takes Step

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six-year-old Bobby Jones of Rossland, B.C., paralyzed in his right side after a car aerial pierced his eye last week, has taken his first steps since his injury.

Bobby's mother, Mrs. Wanda Jones, said Thursday "he took only a few steps across the hospital ward, but the nurses were really happy about it."

Mrs. Jones, who has been with her son since he entered the Vancouver General Hospital children's ward, said Bobby was "beginning to use his right hand."

The boy was rushed to Vancouver by ambulance after a discarded car aerial pierced his right eye and entered his brain. Doctors said his eyesight is improving, and added it was a miracle the aerial did not injure the optic nerve.

Labor Minister Refutes Charges

Neglect of Indians Denied; Socreds Doing 'Terrific Job'

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks denied yesterday that the government was doing nothing for native Indians following charges by a recently-resigned civil servant.

Reginald Kelly, secretary to the provincial Indian Advisory Committee, quit last month because of "disagreements" with the minister. He said that the present government was doing nothing for B.C.'s native Indians.

Mr. Wicks said yesterday he was "not aware of any disagreement" with Mr. Kelly. The former secretary was himself a native Indian, the only one in B.C.'s civil service.

The minister said B.C. is limited under the Indian Act but that it was doing "a terrific job" for Indians in matters of social welfare, health and education.

He said plans for the future of the native Indians were being worked out by his department on the basis that the "ultimate solution is integration and assimilation" of the Indian population.

B.C. motorists needn't look for a reduction in car licence fees next year but ticket buyers may get some slight relief in amusement tax, Premier W. A. C. Bennett hinted yesterday.

The premier said motorists are better off paying the present licence fee for a while than having to meet repair bills from broken springs and other damage wrought by bad roads.

But he promised there would be no increases in taxes.

Asked to comment on a hint he dropped in Kelowna regarding reduction of the 15 per cent amusement tax, he said:

"I wouldn't want to say before the budget comes down but if there is any change it will be a reduction."

British Columbia is prepared to enter into a 50-50 agreement with Ottawa "forthwith" for a national health plan, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday.

The premier said B.C. will press for a national health plan at the dominion-provincial conference in Ottawa Oct. 3. He said it will be "the most important conference ever held since Confederation."

The 1956 session of the provincial legislature will open early in January, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday.

While no date has been set, the premier indicated that it will be probably in the first two weeks. The 1955 session opened Jan. 26.

The B.C. government is fighting a move by the federal government to charge the 10 per cent sales tax on material and equipment being used in building several major toll bridges in the province.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday his government is protesting the levy and he expressed confidence that "the federal government will take a second look."

Premier Bennett yesterday denied vigorously that the toll bridges are revenue producing operations. He said the tolls are collected merely to pay off the debt. He noted that in every place a bridge is being built, commuters are now paying tolls on ferries or other bridges. B.C. also pays a 2½ per cent annual subsidy.

The premier said the federal government also charges the tax on material and equipment used for construction of the PGE. He said Ottawa was offering aid of $25,000 a mile for 50 miles of the northern extension but "getting it all back in sales tax."

Two Men Lose Lives In Road Collision

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Two men were killed in a rear-end collision on the Cariboo highway near here early Thursday.

Dead are: Joseph Frank Koenig, 20, of Kelowna, and George Travis, 23, of Kelowna.

Critically injured with a broken neck is Ralph Wardell, 16, of 100-Mile House.

Minor injuries were suffered by Thomas Hannah, 25, and Robert Chappel, 16, both of 100-Mile House.

Failure of a lumber truck's fighting system is believed to have caused the fatality. The driver of the truck stopped his vehicle on the highway when his lights failed at 11:50 p.m. Wednesday. A following panel truck smashed into the rear of the darkened lumber truck. The impact killed the two men and snapped the neck of a 16-year-old passenger.

An inquest will be held here Aug. 20.

Lord Mayor To Go East

EDMONTON (CP)—Sir Seymour Howard, lord mayor of London, will visit Edmonton Sept. 7 and take part in the city's golden jubilee celebrations, it was announced Thursday.

Sir Seymour, on a tour of Canada, will arrive from Calgary by chartered aircraft with Premier Manning and other officials taking part in Calgary's jubilee observances Sept. 6.

Prime Minister St. Laurent will also take part in the ceremonies.

(Sir Seymour will visit Victoria at the end of this month. He is expected to arrive here by steamer Aug. 30 and will spend that night and the next as the guest of Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.)

The board proposes to move its office to Beban park as soon as possible.

The fair board hopes eventually to make the property the main central sports ground.

In court Thursday Pardiac admitted he had been driving while Clark was asleep beside him.

Family Will Hold Reunion

Youbou Couple Wed Sixty Years Today

YOUBOU—A veteran railroader and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. Robert Garrod of Youbou, will celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary Friday.

They were both born and raised in St. Thomas, Ont., and were married there in 1895.

Mr. Garrod, now 80, worked at one time for the Michigan Central and New York Central railroads, before moving to the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg in 1898. He is the only surviving member of the first council of Moose Jaw, which was incorporated in 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrod moved to North Vancouver in 1920 and operated a grocery store there for 12 years. From there they moved to Tappen, B.C., where they lived on a farm for seven years.

The Second World War brought Mr. Garrod back to his early work as a boilermaker with Yarrow Shipyards, Victoria. They retired at Youbou in 1952.

They have four daughters, three sons, 21 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The family will be holding a reunion at the home of their daughter, Mrs. D. Nagy, Youbou, to celebrate the anniversary.

Colonist Responds To Salt Spring Plea

GANGES—In view of several near-drownings in recent years, residents felt the children of Salt Spring Island should be able to receive proper swimming instruction.

Mrs. E. J. Ashlee, president of Salt Spring Island PTA, with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ashdown Green, requested that The Daily Colonist support this project by sending a swimming-instructor to the island.

Seth Halton, publisher of The Daily Colonist, had Mrs. Marge Naysmith, one of the best swimming instructors in British Columbia, teaching a class here within 48 hours.

Mrs. Naysmith came expecting a class of 35, but the overwhelming support resulted in a total of 63 children, between the ages of 8 and 14, gathering at Harbour House, and many more younger ones who wished to join. Mrs. Naysmith is giving a course of six lessons and then later in September will return to give diplomas.

This is the first time there has ever been proper swimming instruction available on Salt Spring.

The school board has now arranged to have a bus from the Fulford ferry hill stop at Vesuvius Bay.

The bus will benefit those who have no transportation. It will be available for the Friday classes Aug. 19 and 26, and Saturday, Aug. 20 and 27. The bus will leave the bus shelter at the top of the Fulford ferry hill at 4 p.m. Fridays, and at 9 a.m. on Saturdays. Children will meet at the Shell station in Ganges, and at Central as usual. Those without transportation will be picked up at those points.

Elan Closes Doors in September

Cultural Experiment Ended; Travel Restrictions Blamed

DUNCAN—The ELAN cultural centre at Cherry Point will close Sept. 6 because travel restrictions have interferred with plans for its development.

Dorothy Punderson, founder of the [illegible] experimenting in living among nations, said she would open a centre in the United States, probably on the west coast.

Miss Punderson said there was less difficulty getting people into and out of the United States.

"But my decision to move there is not entirely due to the Canadian immigration restrictions," she said. "There are more people going through the States."

ELAN was founded by Miss Punderson in 1948, when she commenced operations at Shawnigan Lake. In 1951 the present commodious 19-room building was purchased at Cherry point, on 80 acres of land overlooking Sansum narrows.

In addition to the 19-room main building, there are 14 other structures, including six detached cottages, barns, farm building and piggery—a completely self-contained establishment.

Miss Punderson is a practising psychologist and teacher of music. During the war years, 1941 to 1944, she was director of personnel at the University of Minnesota, and when the centre returns to the United States, Miss Punderson said, she will again engage in work in a professional capacity.

Aims and objects of ELAN are stated to be an effort to promote understanding among people, and among nations, through the exchange of ideas, cultures and pursuits.

Old Alberni School Will Be Demolished

PORT ALBERNI — The original Eighth Avenue school, a two-room building attended by grandparents of present students, will be demolished.

At a District 70 school board meeting, a motion was passed to call for tenders to tear down the structure built in 1912. However, the ancient building, known as the south annex to the present Eighth Avenue elementary school, is still expected to serve the district.

Trustees agreed that all possible material will be salvaged during demolition.

Cancer Is Diminishing

Victim Thanks Union for Help

PORT ALBERNI—Thanks of an IWA member was expressed here for help he has received from fellow-workers in his fight against cancer.

Some months ago, Dean Hassell, a 22-year-old lumber worker, was given 18 months to live. The union undertook to send him to a cancer clinic in Dallas, Texas.

The young man, married and the father of two children, returned to Port Alberni, apparently improved in health, and reported that recent X-rays have shown the cancerous growth is diminishing.

He expressed through Jack Moore, financial secretary of Local 1-85, IWA, his appreciation for the help given him, with special thanks to the committee of Somass division social service fund. He is returning to Dallas this month.

Board Holds To Intention

CUMBERLAND — Protests of Cumberland city council against using oil instead of coal to heat a new two-room school have failed to change the mind of the school board.

The board wrote to council explaining that installation of coal-burning equipment would raise the cost of the school above the amount set in the by-law, and that the oil tank already was in place. The board said that if the use of coal had been practicable, it would not have chosen oil.

Lot Owners Seek Water Supply

NANAIMO (CP)—Owners of 105 lots on beach estates have signed a petition asking the city to lay almost a mile of water pipeline in that area on a local improvement basis, Frank Ney announced Thursday.

Only two property owners in the area have yet to affix their signatures. The petition will be presented to council Monday. Estimated cost of the line is $15,000.

Lana Hurt In Tub

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Blonde film star Lana Turner is suffering from concussion, after a [illegible] at Acapulco.

The actress suffered the injury earlier this week in Acapulco, Mexico, but was not aware of the nature of the hurt, thinking she had only injured her back, her studio disclosed.

Upon her return here by plane, an examination by her personal physician disclosed she had suffered a concussion.

Miss Turner and her husband, Lex Backer, have a home at the Mexican resort. She returned here after the fall Monday to begin work on a film.

Her doctor told the studio that Miss Turner would be confined to bed for at least two weeks.

Wrong Stratford

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Since the opening this year of the Shakespearian festival at Stratford, Conn., officials of this city's festival have been waiting for it to happen.

Tuesday night it did.

"Right day, wrong play; wrong Stratford," said a program seller checking tickets of an elderly couple from the United States who came to the wrong country but the right city.

The confused couple who planned a night at "The Tempest" in Stratford, Conn., spent it instead with "Julius Caesar," 900 miles away.

Contempt Citations Sought

Broadway Probe 'Alerted' Public

NEW YORK (UP)—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) wound up his four-day investigation of Communism on Broadway Thursday with a declaration that the hearings have succeeded "in alerting people to the situation that exists in the theatre."

Walter said he hoped to obtain contempt citations against the 22 unco-operative witnesses who appeared before him here.

The chairman of the House un-American activities committee described the investigation as an "unpleasant job imposed on us by congress."

The New York phase of the hearings ended after the 23rd witness had appeared before a special subcommittee investigating Communism in the theatre, radio and television industries.

Of the 23, only one witness was co-operative. All the rest refused to answer questions about Communism. Twenty invoked constitutional privileges ranging from guarantees against search and seizure to an amendment passed in connection with the freeing of Negro slaves. Two refused to answer questions, but invoked no constitutional amendments.

In commenting on his committee's work, Walter disclosed that former Communist spy Elizabeth Bentley was hired two weeks ago as a paid staff consultant.

In reviewing the committee's work, Walter said: "I feel the hearings have been successful in alerting people to the situation that exists in the theatre."

Both Bettors Lose In Drinking Wager

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—Two men wagered a bet on who could drink a bottle of brandy first. They tried and both died soon afterward, a coroner was told Thursday.

A witness said Eric Forster, 45, and Willie Jardine, 49, each gave £2 to a stakeholder as the contest began.

Forster collapsed after finishing his bottle and died 45 minutes later. Jardine, who did not finish his brandy, died next day.

The coroner found that the pair died of alcoholic poisoning.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Announcement of the sale of the Victoria Cougars can be expected any day. The new owners, according to information reaching here, will be Lynn and Muzz Patrick, general-manager Fred Hutchinson and several prominent Victoria business and professional men.

the end of a career which dates back to the 1899-1900 season. That's when Lester Patrick got his first taste of hockey while playing for a Montreal high school. In the 55 ensuing years he has more than merited the title pinned on him long ago—"Mr. Hockey."

He became a club official 44 years ago, in the 1911-12 season, when he took over at Victoria. Since then he has served in almost every possible capacity—as a coach who won more than his share of honors in the National Hockey League, as general manager of the New York Rangers, as a vice-president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, which owned the New Yrok NHL franchise, and again as owner of the Victoria Cougars. As a player he was one of the best and he was among the first elected to hockey's hall of fame.

During that time, almost every advance in hockey, whether in improved rules or equipment or in presentation, can be credited to Lester or someone in the Patrick family. And while often taken for granted in his adopted home town, he is regarded everywhere as the No. 1 figure in hockey history.

He'll be missed in the game's councils. And he'll miss being there, but he leaves with the satisfying knowledge that the Patrick hockey tradition will be maintained by sons Lynn and Muzz, already general-managers of NHL teams. He must be proudest of all of that fact.

RANDOM HARVEST. The Cougars have signed Don Hamilton, 18-year-old goalkeeper of the junior Shamrocks and net minder for Drakes of the Commercial Hockey League last winter. He will serve as spare goalie during training sessions, which open at Seattle on Sept. 22 . . . the Western Hockey League season starts on Friday, Oct. 7, with the New Westminster Royals meeting the Cougars at Memorial Arena . . . in case you hadn't already heard, it will be the Regina Regals and the Winnipeg Warriors for the two newcomers to the WHL, while the returning Seattle club has discarded Bombers and will be known as the Americans . . . Only Bill Davidson of last season's defencemen is expected back by the Cougars. Walt Clune is due to line up with Montreal Royals, Mike Keating has been sent to Winnipeg, Pete Durham traded to Cleveland for coach Eddie Olson and Bill Bucyk, Detroit property, is not available . . . Eddie Dorohoy may wind up in Seattle with Billy Reay and there is a chance that Alex Kuzma may also join his former coach in the Sound City . . . and a note for hunters—there is a chance that the brant season will be extended this season . . . another former WIL player is going to get a big-league chance. The Chicago White Sox have purchased the contract of shortstop Buddy Peterson from San Diego . . . and Jim Clark, one of the best of the WIL shortstops while he was with the Tyees, made some news last week by jumping the Oklahoma City club after he was ordered out of uniform by manager Rudy Laskowski for refusing to play. Clark claimed he wasn't fit to play but the club doctor gave him a clean bill of health. After returning to his California home, Clark wrote a letter to a newspaper explaining why he quit baseball. He criticized minor league conditions and said he could see no future in the game although he was having his best season, hitting .289 in a tough AA pitcher's league and fielding excellently. In rebuttal, club-owner Jim Humphries called Clark a "clubhouse lawyer" . . . there is good news for curlers in the decision not to increase club dues of $35 this season. However, members of the Victoria Curling Club will be assessed affiliation fees for the B.C. and Island associations, in effect an increase of $1.50.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Shamrocks in tonight's lacrosse playoffs, Fletchers in senior "A" softball playdowns, and the Yanks, Indians, White Sox and Red Sox in the American League. Batting average to date: At bat 257, hits 185, percentage .720.

Easier To Handle Than Punches

Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore has been bubbling over with confidence as he prepares for his next opponent, Rocky Marciano, the world heavyweight king. Ancient Archie, who claims he will knock out the Brockton, Mass., blockbuster and pick up the heavyweight title at Yankee Stadium next month, has a broad smile to match his wink as he holds up pictures of The Rock. Experts give the 38-year-old Moore a chance to last the route but think he may find punches more difficult to handle than pictures.

Timbermen Win in Overtime To Grab Two-Game Lead; Rocks Host Indians Tonight

Nanaimo Timbermen, new Inter-City Lacrosse League champions who have been point-

final since the end of last season, moved within one game of the ICLL final at Vancouver last night.

Given a stern battle by Vancouver Pilseners, the Nanaimo team won out in an overtime period, 12-11, to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five semi-final.

They are now prohibitive favorites to eliminate the Pils Saturday night in the third game, at Nanaimo. That would probably give them a week's rest before they take on the winner of the Victoria Shamrocks-Mount Pleasant Indians semi-final.

Indians and Rocks meet tonight at Memorial Arena with the series tied at 1-1 and the fourth game not scheduled until Wednesday night. Whether the series is over then or not until the fifth game, set for Thursday night, it's likely the first game of the final will be played the following Saturday at Nanaimo.

Shamrocks go into tonight's game short two regulars for certain and with Al Gill unlikely to be able to play because of an ankle injury. Whitey Severson is still out with a shoulder injury and Larry Booth will be sitting out an automatic suspension for having incurred a match penalty at Vancouver Wednesday night.

However, Indians will be without Alf Brenner, Booth's opponent in Wednesday's stick-swinging episode, and will also be without Skip MacKay, one of their better players. MacKay, it is reported, is getting married tomorrow and his lacrosse activity is over for the balance of the season unless Indians should surprise by getting into the Mann Cup final.

Shamrocks will again have Geordy Johnston in goal with Bob Monaghan and Jack Thompson and Lou Landess and Bill Bamford on defence.

If Gill is unable to play as expected, Rob Dobbie will team with Arnie Ferguson and Pee Wee Bradshaw on one line. Archie Browning, Jackie Northup and Jack Bionda will be on another string and Nip O'Hearn, Al Davies and Tom Druce will be on a third line. If Gill plays, he will replace Dobbie with the latter replacing Druce, who will be utilityman.

Jim McNulty, league scoring champion, won the game for Timbermen last night as he took Tom White's pass at 4:36 of the overtime period to blaze a shot past Ron Delmonico. It was his only goal of the game.

Before that, Pils had taken a 6-4 half-time lead in the rugged game but Nanaimo flashed back with five of eight goals in the third quarter to tie, then split four fourth-quarter goals to force overtime.

Don Ashbee and Bob Raffle each scored three goals for the winners with Raffle also getting two assists but the big man was coach Arnie Dugan, who scored twice and set up five goals.

Sifford Soars to 76 As Palmer Takes Lead

By W. R. WHEATLEY

WESTON, Ont. (CP) — Arnold Palmer, only a year out of amateur ranks and the U.S. national amateur title, came through with a superb display of precision golf Thursday to take over the lead in the Canadian Open golf championship.

Making the most of his sharp iron shots and putting, Palmer scored a second-round 67, five under the Weston club's par, to put himself in front at the halfway mark with 131.

Charlie Sifford, U.S. Negro national champion who became a one-day wonder Wednesday with a tournament record 63 for the first round lead, soared to a 74 Thursday. He dropped well back into the 137 bracket, six strokes away from Palmer.

Jackie Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., took over second place alone with 133, two strokes behind Palmer. Burke shot a six-under-par 66 Thursday.

At 134 were Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga and Jerry Barber of Los Angeles.

BRILLIANT RECOVERY

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, working on a 66, was off to a poor start in the second round—three over par after two holes—but recovered brilliantly and finished with 69, putting him in a tie with Dave Douglas, 1953 Canadian Open champion, for fourth place with 135.

Behind them at 136 were Mike Fetchick of Lake Mahopac, N.Y., with an eagle in his second round 68; Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N.Y., currently third in money winnings on the circuit, and Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa. Souchak shot a 68 Thursday and Wall a 69.

More than half a dozen crowded into the 137 bracket. Among them, with Sifford, were Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, Va., and Henry Martell of Edmonton. Martell, with a 71 in the first round, gave par a licking with a brilliant second-round 66.

Palmer, who hails from Latrobe, Pa., was dead for the pin all day. Only once did he wobble. At the 16th, a par five, he hooked his second shot into a clump of small trees and took a six to get down.

STAGES COMEBACK

One of the sharpest comebacks of the hot, muggy day was made by lanky Dave Douglas, who fired a first-round 70. He rolled up an impressive string of nine birdies but slipped over par at the eighth and ninth.

There were two surprise scratches, Freddie Haas of New Orleans, runner-up to Julius Boros in the "world" title at Chicago, withdrew because of bursitis in his arm. Haas, who shot a 73 Wednesday, said he would go on to Montreal for next week's $26,800 Open there.

Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, with a one-under par 71 Wednesday, picked up on the 14th green without explanation.

Stan Leonard made a fine recovery for a 69 after a disastrous start. He sliced out of bounds off the first tee but got down in five despite a two-stroke penalty. On the par-four second he put his approach into a ditch and then overshot the green, finally getting down in six.

Eric Hanson of Toronto Scarborough moved into the lead as low amateur, shooting a 68 Thursday for a halfway total of 139, tied with half a dozen pros who included Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Ed Furgol of St. Louis.

New York Yankees gained ground percentage-wise in the jammed American League race without doing a thing Thursday, while Chicago White Sox blew a chance to bump the Bombers out of the lead by splitting a doubleheader with sixth-place Kansas City.

Chicago won the opener 6-2 and had the lead momentarily, but the As won the nightcap 5-3, leaving the White Sox a full game behind the Yankees, who were rained out at Boston.

Third-place Cleveland, meanwhile, broke off a three-game losing streak by beating Detroit 5-3 as rookie Herb Score struck out 13.

Cleveland also is a full game behind the Yankees and three percentage points behind Chicago, while Boston is 3½ games off the pace.

Righthander Arnie Portocarrero dumped the White Sox from a three-game winning streak, checking them on six hits in the nightcap. Vic Power's one-on homer overcame Chicago's unearned 2-0 lead in the seventh, and after the Sox made it 3-2 on Sherm Lollar's home run in their half of the sixth, the As rallied again and pulled away.

Singles by Chico Carrasquel, Nellie Fox and Walt Dropo scored the winning run in the fifth inning of the opener, with Minnie Minoso adding a two-run double in the seventh. Virgil Trucks won his 12th for the Sox, although forced out with a bruised right leg when struck by a line drive in the sixth.

A pair of Tiger errors led the way to a five-run eighth inning for the Indians, breaking up a 1-1 duel between Score and Frank Lary.

In the National, Brooklyn shook off its slump and beat New York Giants 8-3, routing Jim Hearn with three runs on five hits in the first inning. Karl Spooner was the Dodger starter, but left in the fourth with an 8-4 lead. Rookie Don Bessent won it in relief.

Cincinnati reclaimed fifth place from Chicago, beating the Cubs 2-1. Singles by Gus Bell, Chuck Harmon, Rocky Bridges and Roy McMillan got the two runs home for the Redlegs off loser Paul Minner with two out in the sixth. Art Fowler won it with a six-hitter.

Bill Bruton and Chuck Tanner hit home runs—the former with one on—to enable Milwaukee Braves to defeat St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3, in the only night game.

Junior Rocks Square Series with 11-7 Win

Victoria Junior Shamrocks squared their Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League semi-final series with New Westminster as they downed the Salmonbellies, 11-7, at Memorial Arena last night.

The victory, which evened the best-of-three playoff at one game each, was protested by the Mainland club on the grounds that Fred Doig, scrappy forward of Archie Browning's crew, had played in too many league games for Navy of the city senior "B" loop to be eligible for junior playoffs.

Should the protest be upheld the game will probably be ordered replayed. However, coach Browning said last night that he believed the protest would be thrown out since many of Doig's appearances with the Sailors were in exhibition tussles. Meanwhile, the third and deciding game is tentatively scheduled for New Westminster Monday night.

STANDOUT PERFORMER

Doig was the standout performer for the Rocks last night, playing a strong two-way game and finishing up with three goals and an assist. Ross Roskamp also fired three goals for the Victorians.

Shamrocks, who dropped a 15-9 decision in the opening game at New Westminster, jumped into an early 2-0 lead and stayed in front the rest of the way.

Salmonbellies held a good share of the play but were stopped in their attempts to pull even by the fine netminding of Don Hamilton. They moved within one goal, at 8-7, with five minutes remaining, but the Rocks rammed in three unanswered goals to win going away.

Scorers follow:

Junior Shamrocks—Doig 3, Roskamp 3, J. Shawera 1, Lawrence 1, Robbins 1, B. Shawera 1, Langley 1. Total—11.
New Westminster—Falk 3, Robertson 1, Collins 2, Oddy 2. Total—7.

Sad Barber Decides TV Not Good for Business

TOKYO (AP)—A goodly crowd gathered Wednesday night at Jiro Masuyama's barber shop to check out his new television set. The Yomiuri baseball Giants were trouncing the Osaka Tigers.

Tiger fan Koichi Seya, 23, suffered through four innings, then flipped the switch to another station.

Seven Giant fans and five Tiger fans leaped into a free-for-all. A police van screeched to a stop outside and officers hustled all 14 battlers to the station.

And poor Masuyama? Sadly he watched the Giants win 10-0, then righted overturned barber chairs and benches. Thursday he sent back the TV set.

U.S. Net Officials Blasted by Hopman

Harry Hopman, controversial captain of Australia's Davis Cup tennis team, stirred up another little storm yesterday.

Hopman accused United States officials of "impertinence" and added:

"I am not going to have any American tennis officials and sports writers running my team for me."

Hopman made his comment after he had been criticized for holding his two aces, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, out of the national doubles tournament at Brooklyn, Mass., despite a mutual agreement that players of both countries compete in national events during visits.

Harry's explanation of his actions was that Rosewall needed some rest and Hoad needed plenty of practice.

Confidence Subdued As English Soccer Set for New Season

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Another English soccer season begins Saturday, earlier than ever and with the customary confidence subdued by events at home and abroad.

The game of the professional football league, plus thousands of semi-pro and amateur clubs, will put toe to leather a week after the season started in Scotland.

Things could be better.

The small fellow in the cloth cap and colored muffler, who takes his soccer standing on the close-ranked terraces round the country's stadia, will pay threepence more a match this season—or a minimum of two shillings.

Second division clubs, particularly in the third division's two sections, may be playing on borrowed time.

TAKING SECOND PLACE

And he probably is nursing his share of the country-wide apprehension that British soccer has not come back the way it was supposed to do a year or so ago; that Britain's teams are close to being regarded as second rate in Europe and South America.

The increase in admission price, small but a larger matter for the average soccer fan, is the league antidote to the case of the missing millions. Another 1,000,000 spectators vanished last season, making 3,000,000 in two years.

Television, too much soccer by too many teams, and badly-played football share the blame.

The old-timers claim that the youngsters are too money-minded these days. The players' union is pressing requests for better wages, and a freer hand for players dealing with their clubs.

Newspapers have been full of diverse warnings, suggestions and theories aroused by some pre-season events.

LOST TO BELFAST

A British team dropped a 4-1 decision to a second-string band of European players at Belfast last Saturday. Wolverhampton Wanderers, Britain's best team last year until the final month of the season, was beaten twice in Moscow.

Added to England and Scottish losses at the end of last season to Hungary, France and Portugal, these results have cast gloom over the setting.

In keeping with club economies, the off-season produced no grand-lose deals as teams pared their personnel.

The retiring league president, Arthur Drewery, left the idea with the professional clubs that the time may be ripe to consider reconstructing the league structure. There perhaps should be fewer clubs and-or fewer divisions than the present three, he said.

TV TROUBLES

The league also reported that commercial TV has upped its offer for individual matches to £1,000 but it is holding out for £5,000 or more.

Predictions on the teams themselves have been cramped by the cricket season, still hot and heavy, and by the spate of comment about the broader picture. But Chelsea, the defending league champion, is highly regarded, Arsenal is rebuilding and Sunderland, the big money club, is another favorite.

Russian Tops World Record

LONDON (Reuters)—A Russian athlete, 25-year-old Vassily Vlassenko, Thursday broke the world record for the 3,000-metre steeplechase in eight minutes 45.4 seconds, Moscow radio reported.

The officially recognized record of eight minutes 49.6 seconds was set by Sandor Rosznyoi of Hungary in the European championships at Bern last year. It equalled the so-far unrecognized time by Pentti Karvonen of Finland in Oslo last month.

OLD INDUSTRY

Seal oil was exported from Newfoundland as early as 1749.

Typing, Talking Drivers To Test Safety Devices

New safety devices installed at Western Speedway apparently had their effect in last Saturday's stock-car meet, as the largest field of wheel jockeys of the season hustled through an accident-free main event.

However, despite the precautions, the accident rate may take a sharp climb in tomorrow's special event at the Millstream road track.

Regular stock-car drivers will be watching from the sidelines during the special event while members of the press and radio match their questionable skills in a 10-lap scramble.

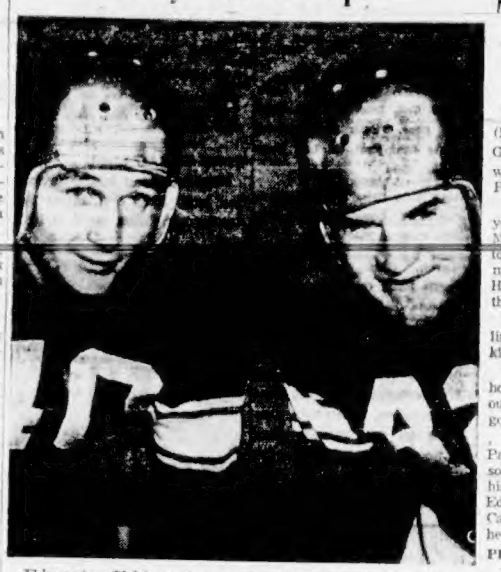

Among the press-radio representatives, who will be competing for a trophy and the right to donate the purse of at least $100 to a favorite charity, will be vocal experts Keith McKenzie, Norm Pringle, Phil Barter, Doug McFarlane and Len Carlson, and typewriter tappers G. E. Mortimore, John Jones, Ian McDonald and Mort Graham of the Colonist and Ron Coulter and Ab Kent of the Times.

In the regular races Saturday, up-Island drivers will be back in force to continue their duel with local throttle-pushers. Hank Neilson, Red Burke and Harry Roberts, winners of heat races last Saturday, will be gunning for first place in the 25-lap, reverse-start main event, in which all cars will compete.

Due to the increased numbers of cars, heat races are expected to be increased from eight laps and eight cars to 10 laps and 10 cars.

Time trials start at 7.30, with the first heat due to get away at 8.15.

Carry Eskimo Hopes

Edmonton Eskimos hopes of retaining their Canadian football championship depend greatly on U.S. imports Jackie Parker, left, and Kurt Burris, both 22. Parker, who scored winning touchdown in Grey Cup final against Montreal, is at quarterback, while Burris, 1954 All-American with Oklahoma University, centres the Eskimo line.

Swim Marks Tumble In Meet at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian aquatic records fell by the wayside in wholesale lots Thursday, winding up the first day of the Canadian swimming and diving championships.

By the time the water had stilled from the 11 evening events at McGill University memorial pool, 12 Canadian records had been broken.

Four of the records had been set in qualifying heats during the afternoon.

Two more were broken by 16-year-old Frankie Brunelle of Philadelphia Vesper Club—in the senior men's 400-yard medley swim and the junior men's 100-yard freestyle. His times were 4.54.4 and 53.9 respectively, compared with the former marks of 5.08.8 and 54.2.

Relay records were set by the Ontario section "A" team of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association—with a time of 4.16.4 in the junior women's 400-yard freestyle—and by the Camp Chikopi, Ont., "A" squad—in 4.23.6 in the junior men's 400-yard medley relay.

SETS TWO RECORDS

Shelley Mann of the Walter Reed Hospital Swim Club in Washington, D.C., set two records. Her 58.9-second time in the senior women 100-yard freestyle bettered the 59.2 mark set in the afternoon by Wanda Werner, also of Walter Reed.

She also swam to a record 2.26.4 in the 200-yard senior women's medley swim. In the qualifying rounds in the afternoon, Miss Mann broke the old record of 2.51.2 with a time of 2.31.2.

Mary Jane Sears, also of Walter Reed, set a Canadian mark of 2.39.8 in the senior 200-yard breast stroke section. The former record of 2.47.0 was set during the day by Irene Service of Vancouver.

The other record to fall was in the senior men's 200-yard butterfly. Eighteen - year - old Charles (Chuck) Stagman of Cincinnati came home in 2.21.7, breaking the previous record of 2.23.4.

In the afternoon Stagman sliced almost 30 seconds off the 1,650-yard freestyle mark as he finished his heat in 12.42.3. Helen Stewart, Vancouver, lowered the women's 200-yard medley record to 2.33.1; Sara Barber, Brantford, set a Dominion mark of 1.07.9 in the junior women's 1,000-yard backstroke and Wanda Werner of Washington trimmed eight seconds from the senior women's 100-yard freestyle with a time of 59.2 seconds.

City Reaches Soccer Semis

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver City downed Pilseners 3-1 before 600 fans at Callister park Wednesday night in the first round of the Dominion soccer series, B.C. section.

The win advanced Vancouver City to the semi-finals. They meet St. Andrews next Wednesday night in one semi-final round, while New Westminster Royals clash with North Shore United Saturday in the other round.

Coach Claims Parker Holds Key To Success of Grey Cup Champs

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy says the fortunes of his Grey Cup champions in 1955 pretty well depend upon how Jackie Parker goes at quarter.

Parker, a shuffle-footed back last year, is the man who wrecked Montreal Alouettes with an 85-yard touchdown gallop in the last few minutes of the 1954 Grey Cup final. His major gave the Eskimos a thrilling 26-25 decision.

No believer in going out on a limb, Ivy says of Edmonton's Eskimos:

"A question mark this season is how well Parker is going to work out at quarter. We think he is going to do very well."

That is an understatement. Parker started off his second season with the split-T Eskimos in his usual spectacular fashion when Edmonton trimmed Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 21-6, in an exhibition game here Aug. 10.

PERFECT RECORD

He directed the Eskimos to a touchdown on his first series of plays and had a perfect night in the passing department. He hit his mates on all six attempts.

That was against a team that had humbled Calgary Stampeders 29-2 in Hamilton a few days earlier. Eskimos followed up with a 29-18 decision over the rejuvenated Toronto Argonauts.

Of the team as a whole, Ivy said on the eve of the regular season:

"We look a little stronger as far as depth goes. But that's only natural. We're allowed 12 imports this year."

Last season the import quota was nine plus three Canadian-Americans—players who had played in Canada for four years. Edmonton had only two of these ex-imports in 1954.

NOTABLES GONE

Prominent imports missing this year include quarterback Bernie Faloney, tackles Roger Nelson and Jim Weatherall, end Rollin Prather and half Glenn Lippman. Canadians missing are flying wing Glenn McWhinney, sold to his hometown Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and kicking half Rod Pantages, with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

A notable Canadian not with the club this season is Bill Zock of Toronto, a lineman from Toronto who played 19 seasons of professional football in Canada.

For the 16-game schedule in the five-team Western Interprovincial Football Union the Esks have uncovered tackle Dale Meinert, a 21-year-old Oklahoma A and M graduate.

Other top imports include kicking end Bob Heydenfeldt from the University of California at Los Angeles and Kurt Burris, a centre from Oklahoma University chosen for 10 All-American teams last fall and picked by the champion Cleveland Browns of the National Football League as their No. 1 draft choice.

Canadian newcomers include quarterback Don Getty and fullback Gino Fracas, two University of Western Ontario grads who have been prominent in Eskimo workouts and exhibition games.

Other Canadians to the fore have been fullback Con Kelly, an Edmonton junior graduate, and halfback Ed Learn, a 19-year-old surprise candidate from Welland, Ont.

STRONGER LEAGUE

Ivy figures the whole WIFU will be stronger this season "simply because Vancouver Lions are stronger."

Of Calgary Stampeders who have switched to the split-T this season, Ivy said:

"We respect anyone who executes the split-T offence. They're going to be a lot tougher than they have shown in exhibition games. They have a new coach, new formations and new personnel."

To produce the funds needed for a team that costs $400,000 a year, the fan-owned club has 20,200-seat Clarke Stadium. Tickets range from $1.65 to $3.25. The club has never reported a deficit since its formation in 1949 but it generally shows only a modest profit.

The club has never been involved in any squabble with NFL clubs over players.

The club had a record of 17 wins and seven losses in 1954. Many of the so-called experts pick Edmonton to finish the WIFU schedule on top again.

know the score on sport!

IN GOLF, most amateurs usually play better on the back nine holes. Reason is, they're usually just getting "warmed up" after the front nine. Next time practice at least five shots before you tee-off—it will help lower your score for the front nine and improve your round.

Recently Sports College ran tests to find the score on Philishave. We found that compared with other shaving methods, Philishave, the rotary electric shaver, causes less irritation to athletes' tender skins. Philishave quickly removed their whiskers and left the skin soft and smooth. We've tested and we recommend rotary action Philishave.

Clair Blasts Argo Brass

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Clair, former coach of Toronto Argonauts football team, has charged in a magazine article that he was manoeuvred out of his job by the club's "power-hungry brass."

In the article in the current issue of Liberty magazine, Clair writes:

"What happened to me—the kind of front - office manoeuvring of which I was the victim—could set back the growth of Canadian big-league football for a long time.

"Of all the Canadian clubs in big-league football, I'd say Toronto has given its fans the most amateurish administrative deal."

Clair, who left Argos this year to become assistant coach of the Cincinnati University team, centres his main criticism on Harry Sonshine, Argo team director who, he says, has "lust for power."

Fame and Fortune Seekers

Fame and fortune may be ahead for these Vancouver Islanders, who will compete for a possible chance to join the Horace Heidt show when the band-leader appears at Memorial Arena Wednesday. They are, from left, rear, Irene Janik, 435 Quebec, 18-year-old popular singer, and Bill Oulton, 16, pianist of the Shawnigan Lake "Islanders" trio; front, Ron Jenkins, 20-year-old leader of the Islanders; Diana Bruntlett, 146 Cadillac, 14-year-old violinist, and Oulton's twin brother, Jack, another violin expert.

Dam To Raise Level of Buttle Lake Will Be Constructed Immediately

Work will start almost immediately on construction of a 160-foot dam two miles below the outlet of Upper Campbell lake, which will eventually create one big lake of Upper Campbell and Buttle lakes, and raise level of Buttle lake by 19 feet.

But B.C. Power Commission officials said yesterday that the level of Buttle lake will not be affected until late 1957 at the earliest.

Contract to build the Upper Campbell dam was awarded yesterday to Dawson Wade & Co. Ltd. for $4,921,875.

The BCPC hopes the dam will be sufficiently advanced by November, 1956, that there will be water storage in Upper Campbell lake available for downstream generating plants at Ladore falls and the John Hart units.

Originally expected to be a two stage development, the Upper Campbell project will now be one continuous effort to provide power as soon as possible.

But it will depend on natural runoffs as to how long it takes to fill storage space at Upper Campbell and then Buttle lake. Power commission officials hope that by the end of 1957 Buttle will start rising to the new level of 19 feet above the average high water level.

Before the level of Buttle is raised a 24-foot strip around the lake will be logged and cleared. Final details for this project have to be ironed out with the water comptroller and forest service before tenders are called for the work.

All timber affected within Strathcona park boundaries will be sold by public auction.

The BCPC expects to make an early start on the installation of two 42,000 horsepower generating units at the Upper Campbell dam site and would like to have these in operation by 1957.

Roderick Haig Brown, noted Campbell River conservationist and author who has consistently opposed any interference with Buttle lake on grounds that it would spoil one of the last wilderness areas and ruin Strathcona Park, expressed surprise last night when he heard a contract had been let to erect the dam to its full height.

"They have made a mistake in letting that contract," he said. "It is quite needless and sloppy handling."

He said it is not known how much flooding Buttle lake can stand. It is not known how much horsepower the last few feet the lake is raised will generate; and that Vancouver Island will have to go somewhere else for its power soon anyway.

"All they have to do is advance the Bute inlet project by a year and leave Buttle as it is," Mr. Haig Brown said. He added "there is no problem in getting power for the Island. Ultimately we won't be short of power because we will have to get it from the mainland."

Leave Awful Mess

He said flooding of Buttle will leave an "awful mess." Clearing of the area, he said, is an almost impossible task and "if the proper conditions were enforced there would be no dam because the cost would be prohibitive."

But B.C. Power Commission argues the lake will be more accessible to the public as roads will be built.

Restriction of the water licence to the BCPC insist that proper campsites are cleared, boat landings built, and access roads constructed.

There is a rough road to Buttle lake now, but it passes through two privately-owned logging company operations, which are sometimes barred by gates.

Since the BCPC constructed a rough road to the head of the lake last year, Buttle has been used by the general public more than it has been since the old trail was overgrown and logged over, but strictly speaking, the general public has no right of access by road.

Colonist reporters who flew over Buttle lake yesterday, observed three or four tents pitched on the lakeshore, but saw no boats fishing in the lake.

When the Upper Campbell project is completed, it will bring the Campbell river system up to 322,000 horsepower capacity — 84,000 at Upper Campbell, 70,000 at Ladore and 168,000 at the John Hart plant.

The new dam will be of earth fill construction 160 feet high and 1,800 feet long at the top. It will be 1,000 feet thick at the existing river level and 36 feet at the top.

About 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth will be used in construction.

The generating plant will be on the downstream side of the dam at the west end to which water will be carried through a 32-foot diameter penstock to two 42,000-horsepower units.

When the job is completed the storage behind the dam will form one large 30-mile long lake out of Buttle and Upper Campbell.

The power commission will have the job of gathering and removing a tremendous amount of old logs and debris which now lie around Upper Campbell and the Elk river valley, which is now a logged-off mess.

Drama of Saanich Frontier

Tail of a coon was quickly added to a Davy Crockett cap fashioned by Henry Clarke, 3448 Salisbury, when his 12-year-old son John returned with the booty from a Saanich coon hunt yesterday morning.

Penalty Exacted

Contract for the B.C. Power Commission's Upper Campbell lake dam has been awarded to Dawson Wade & Co. Ltd. for $4,921,875 after another company withdrew a bid which was $800,000 lower.

The Commission originally received six bids ranging from a low of $4,119,595 from Marwell Construction Co. to $6,867,766 from J. W. Stewart Ltd. The Marwell bid was the lowest but the Vancouver firm subsequently withdrew, presumably on the grounds that they had underestimated the cost of constructing the huge dam.

Officials of the B.C. Power Commission say the firm will not lose its 10 per cent deposit, required with all tenders. But it will be "penalized" by forfeiting "an appropriate percentage" of the deposit.

They would not disclose the amount of the forfeiture.

Appliance Prices To Go Up

Prices of major household appliances are expected to climb in the near future due to increased cost of metals and higher wages paid by manufacturers, Victoria retailers said yesterday.

But none would hazard a guess as to how much the increase would be or when it would take place.

"There's quite a war on between manufacturers and in some instances, such as television sets, retail outlets have been selling them almost at cost," one appliance salesman reported.

"But the way things are shaping up, a price increase is inevitable," he said.

The major indications of the price hike were listed as higher prices of steel, aluminum and copper, higher wages paid by manufacturers and increased freight rates.

The price increases were expected to apply to electric stoves, refrigerators, washers, driers, ironers, radios and television sets. Aluminum pots and pans were also listed as being among the items which might be affected.

'Dream Come True'

$21,000 Model Yacht Pool Plan Delights Boys' Club Chairman

Construction of a $21,000 wading and model yacht pool on Holland point through use of capital city grant funds is a "dream come true," an official of the Victoria Optimist Club said yesterday.

Fred Tanner, chairman of Optimist club boys' work, said the club would organize a campaign to find all boys with model yachts and might set up a model yacht regatta to open the pond.

The club has conducted classes in building model boats for some years.

City workmen are expected to begin construction of the pond within a few weeks.

BALANCE FOR PAVING

Remainder of the $35 grant of $40,000 will be spent to complete paving on the Dallas road marine drive between Cook street and Clover point, with curbing on the south side of Dallas.

"I'm glad to see Dallas road being finished," said Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman of city public works committee.

The provincial-civic grant committee took no action on Premier W. A. C. Bennett's suggestion that the grant be put toward a civic auditorium. It is expected the proposal will receive considerable discussion next year.

Recreation Plan Answer to Drugs

Failure to combat the problem of inadequate recreational facilities in the province is the reason why young men find their recreation with the dope pusher around the corner, members of Victoria Rotary Club were told yesterday.

Speaker was Maj. Seymour E. Park, public relations officer for the provincial government lands department.

During the past 15 years the population of the province has soared with the introduction of heavy industry, intensive agriculture and gigantic power projects.

"New techniques and methods in industry have tended to increase the spare time of the individual beyond the wildest dreams of our fathers and grandfathers," said Major Park.

Yet the land available for recreation has shrunk alarmingly."

In the old world there had been no planning for recreation. But European governments today were buying back estates at tremendous costs to provide recreational sites.

"On this continent the Americans pioneered recreational planning," the speaker continued. "But in this country our own efforts were timid, inadequate and belated."

The first provincial park in B.C. was Strathcona laid aside in 1911.

"Since then we have added 10,000,000 acres," said Major Park. "That should be 8,000,000 acres as we have just lost 2,000,000 acres with the damming of Buttle lake."

There are 70 provincial parks and 68 campsites.

"These parks, in all stages of development, are dedicated to all tastes," stated Major Park. "We have strategically placed parks to bring recreation to urban peoples of the province."

The campsite system was comparatively new. Its construction started in 1951. Its success was phenomenal.

All the campsites are developed to a common standard and no charge is made to campers.

"All that we ask is that you keep these sites clean," Major Park said.

Camping, he said, was showing a tremendous growth every year and an estimated 500,000 people stayed at the various camps last year.

"Just under 1,000,000 people visited our parks," he said.

Carrier Happy

Coon Hunt Nets Boy Davy Crockett Cap

Daily Colonist carrier boy John Clarke witnessed a real drama of the wild frontier yesterday morning and he has a genuine coon tail to prove his story.

The 12-year-old Saanich boy, who lives at 3448 Salisbury, was delivering papers early yesterday when he found a real-life coon hunt going on at the property of Maj.-Gen. George R. Pearkes, VC, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Evidently the coon had been bent on a chicken coop raid when it was surprised by two of the general's dogs.

The dogs kicked up quite a din.

Gen. Pearkes phoned Saanich coon hunter Harvey Godfrey, 1360 West Saanich road, who has a license to shoot in the municipality.

One shot dispatched the coon and John was given the tail. Last night it was being fashioned into a Davy Crockett cap.

Later Mr. Godfrey killed four more coons with three shots. He grabbed one by the tail and threw it to the dogs.

For Mr. Godfrey yesterday's hunt brought to 21 the total number of coons he has shot in the past month.

"I figure there should be a bounty on them," he said last night. "I don't get paid and it is rather expensive."

Heat Loosens Wood Blocks On City Span

Police notified the city engineer's department last night that some wooden blocks on the Johnson street bridge were coming loose and were dangerous to traffic.

The bridge keeper said last night: "I think if we get some rain the blocks will tighten up. It is nothing serious. It has happened before in hot weather."

It Runs in Family

Sixty Years without Doctor

There's No Secret to Longevity Says Near-Centenarian

There is no secret of longevity, according to Mrs. Hanna Chapman Barker.

She is looking forward to celebrating her 100th birthday Sept. 30 and attributes her long life to a family characteristic. Her mother lived until nearly 102 and other members of her family also enjoyed long life.

Spry and diminutive, Mrs. Barker has lived in Victoria since 1890. She walked to town regularly until two weeks ago when she fell and hurt her back. She was attended by a doctor for the first time since "I can't remember when."

Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Noel W. Barker, 203 Beechwood, said it must be at least 60 years since Mrs. Barker had seen a doctor.

But despite her injury and age Mrs. Barker walked from the Aged Women's Home, where she has lived for the past two years, to the Hudson's Bay Co. store and back last Tuesday.

"I was tired when I got back," she admitted.

She was born in Kingston Ont. Barrfield, as it was known at that time—the fourth child in John and Elizabeth Leader's family of 14.

Mrs. Leader was the daughter of Lady Ann Farrar. The town of Leader, Sask., was named in honor of Mrs. Barker's father.

Mrs. Barker has two children a son, Noel, who is 76 years old and works at Victoria Machinery Depot; and a daughter, Mrs. Alice Grace Roberts, who lives in Vancouver.

She has five grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Late Summer Weddings

Mr and Mrs. Leopold Wolf of Duncan announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Klara, to Mr. Allan Herman Wilson, only son of Mr and Mrs. W H. Wilson, 2079 Byron street, Victoria. The wedding is to take place on Friday, Aug. 26, at St. Mary's church, Oak Bay. Miss Wolf has asked her sister, Miss Ella Wolf, to be her maid of honor, while bridesmaids will be her cousins, Misses Joanne and Klara Kaerber, and Miss Alice Baumgaard. The groom-elect will have Mr. Laurie Wilson as best man, while ushering will be Mr. Michael Langtrey, Mr. Kenneth Barnes and Mr. Keith Littler.—(Photo by Paul Joncas)

Saturday, Sept. 3, is the date chosen by Miss Lorraine Eva Heard, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Heard, 1449 Clifford street, for her marriage to Mr. Ralph Wiens, son of Mrs. Wiens, 841 Condor avenue, and the late Mr. John Wiens. Rev. F. F. H. James, DD, will officiate at the wedding in Metropolitan United church at 8:30 p.m. Miss Eleanor Wiens, sister of the groom-elect, and Miss Doreen Wilkins will be the bridesmaids, while Mrs. G. Birtwistle will be the matron of honor. The groom-elect will have Mr. Ralph Brubacher as best man, and Mr. Brian Heard and Mr. Gordon Birtwistle as ushers.—(Photo of Miss Heard by Goertz and Mr. Wiens by Jus-Rite)

From Saskatchewan

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bolton and family are visiting Mr. Bolton's sister, Mrs. P. N. Welch, 841 Island Highway, after motoring from Maestone, Sask., via Armstrong and Vancouver. Mr. Bolton is superintendent of schools in the Maestone district; his son, Mr. Charles Bolton, is a medical student at Queen's University. One daughter, Miss Mary Bolton, is a teacher, while Miss Bette Bolton is still in high school. Mr. and Mrs. Bolton plan to return to their home via the United States.

'Close' Apples Now on Market

Did you know that there is a new apple on the market now? You can't buy it everywhere in Victoria but there's one little shop on Fort street that shows it.

It's called a "Close" apple and is a cross between a McIntosh Red and the Yellow Transparent. Combining the ruby red color and sweet flavor of the former and the early [illegible] ... [illegible] you'll find that it will not blacken when touched as the Transparents so often do.

The Experimental Farm at Saanichton is responsible for this new variety and it is from there that the apples I saw came. So if the price, two pounds for 35 cents, sounds a little high you'll understand that you are really getting something special for your money.

Good Buys in Fruit

Although the raspberry and cherry season is almost over the same stall had wonderful looking baskets of both fruits. Giant raspberries were heaped high in cello-covered boxes priced at 23 cents each or two for 45 cents, while the scarlet cooking cherries are two pounds for 45 cents.

Further along the same street I saw some excellent values in fruit. Large ripe cantaloupes were selling at two for 29 cents, giant size Wickson plums 25 cents a pound, Bartlett pears, four for 26 cents, and Rio Orsay peaches, six for 33 cents.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

The urge to catch up with those who have been acquiring a good suntan over a period of weeks is sometimes hard to stifle when you begin your vacation about now. This applies to all ages too, so the whole family should be briefed on its dangers as well as its benefits.

Resolve not to go out into the sun without your favorite sun product in hand. There are so many different types these days it is easy to find one you like. Efforts to make products block out harmful sun rays are continued and most are pleasant to use. [illegible] with [illegible] and numerous helpful qualities. Today you'll find products that won't stain clothing that are nongreasy and pleasant to use, that possess a [illegible] fragrance and that prevent or encourage a coat of tan.

Just as you [illegible] ... [illegible] advice on the subject ... as they do other safety measures. Certainly the little girl will appreciate it later if ... [illegible] ... preparations can help ... [illegible]

When children rebel at having to keep out of the sun ... [illegible] ... quite a good idea ... [illegible] ... shirt or top ... [illegible] ... and back will [illegible] damage if it is done.

MELLOW MALLOWS

Marshmallows make welcome surprises in salads and desserts. To keep your supply from getting dry and brittle keep them in a plastic freezer bag tucked away on a [illegible] shelf in your freezer. When needed, take marshmallows out of freezer and cut them into mix while they are still "freezer cold." Frozen marshmallows won't stick to scissors.

Ancient Egyptian Women Knew Secrets of Allure

BY ANNIE BAXTER

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ever since Eve's pearly white teeth bit into that apple there's been a bewildering parade of femme fatales (or reasonable facsimiles).

Partly because I'm an actress but chiefly because I'm a [illegible] in the field of feminine allure since I was about 15. Now my knowledge of beauty secrets has been greatly enlarged by playing the role of Nefretiri, the queen of Egypt in Cecil B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments."

Nefretiri ruled the glamour arena some 3,200 years ago and it's surprising how much the ladies of that day knew about the art of stalking a man.

The eye, someone said, is the window of the soul, and the Egyptian beauties seemed to know that it was an extremely lethal weapon. They were experts at dramatizing the eyes.

The big difference between eyes then and now was in the element of [illegible] appeal. We [illegible] ... [illegible] They had terrible mirrors of burnished copper and I wondered if the Egyptian glamour girls overdid things a trifle because they just plain couldn't see enough to be subtle.

... [illegible] of charcoal, drew outlined the eyes in [illegible] wing curves. Powdered malachite gave a [illegible] glistened over and just under the eye. Cheeks were tinted with an ointment of red clay.

Their lipstick was pure carmine. Sounds a bit thick, doesn't it? But their eyes were larger and brighter, their mouths softer and more dramatic.

Nefretiri and her royal bench women also taught feet were glamorous. They made their toes, heels and soles rosy with carmine and bejeweled them, adorned them with anklets and toe rings. Might be an idea for the beach this summer, but gently though someone might [illegible] ... [illegible]

[illegible] ... were high fashion for cleanness and comfort. [illegible] along the Nile was [illegible] and wigs were a [illegible] ... [illegible] ...

Perfume didn't exist. But the gals at used their swains with oils, ointments and unguents. This was achieved by soaking flower petals in oils.

One trick was to set a gorgeously perfumed candle on the [illegible] it and wait. Most have smoked divine, but can you imagine scraping melted wax out of last night's wig or eyebrows.

Young Canadian Girl Lands First Film Part

By SYLVIA HACK

LONDON (CP)—Canadian teen-ager Dagmar Eberts pinched herself daily for a week when she learned she had landed her first film part.

"But getting up at five in the morning to be on the film set at seven soon convinced me it was no dream," said the 17-year-old [illegible] self as ambitious and determined doesn't even talk in her small role in "All for Mary."

"But it's a start," says Dagmar, whose passion for thoroughness has led her through the Sadler's Wells ballet school, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, volunteer cabaret singing three or four times a week and a spot of modelling.

She's well satisfied to appear in a few scenes in the garb of the glamorous artist—"just to let the public know of my existence."

In London since 1946, Dagmar has only a touch left of her Canadian accent—"I find it difficult to believe I'm really a Canadian sometimes"—and lives in the arty Chelsea district.

"I'm well assimilated. I slop around in [illegible] like the majority of the Chelseaites. I even sing hillbilly and calypso numbers in one with a bit of persuasion."

She normally wears no makeup except lipstick offstage, and makes her own clothes when she has time. One of her creations, a red silk model, was so successful she was asked to wear it in the film.

Dagmar started ballet lessons at 12, but halfway through decided to become an actress.

"Thoroughness is the thing," she says. "So I stayed at the ballet school until I was 16. I was offered [illegible]"

She anticipates no easy road to the top. "The rugged repertory route will prove [illegible] stage experience," she expects. "Then perhaps the West End—if I'm good enough."

Fruit Is Wonderful

Greek Wine Like Sawdust To Inexperienced Palate

BY DEE LAVOIE

[illegible]

NYLOKASTRON, Greece.—I came to Greece armed with knowledge of only one Greek dish—moussaka, a sort of meat pie which I like very much.

But so far we have had little chance to try ordering a Greek meal for ourselves.

In Athens our guide did the ordering and we found ourselves looking bravely at good English egg and chips for lunch.

Here in camp, we eat at an open-air dining pavilion and though the cooking is all Greek the menus are set and we don't have to struggle to select our own food.

There is one common denominator to all dishes—olive oil.

Most of our meals start [illegible] at either [illegible] spaghetti [illegible] cooked of course in olive oil. I had a completely [illegible] to wind the spaghetti around my fork and I refuse to give in and cut it up, so I have a daily struggle with it that fascinates the others at the table.

Next course is meat and chips, sizzling with olive oil, served with plenty of the most delicious tomatoes I've ever had—NOT mussed up with mayonnaise or bits of lettuce, but just sliced. I can usually manage to shake most of the olive oil off them.

For dessert, we have either tiny, sweet green grapes with a slice of goat's milk cheese or crisp melon. The fruit is beyond words—I could get quite lyrical about it.

Breakfast [illegible]

In the evenings we sometimes walk through the pine woods or along the beach to the village of [illegible] [illegible] coffee which I like [illegible] sugarless.

We have [illegible]

One thing delights me—lemonade or water are always served ice cold in even a tiny and remote village like Nylokastron, a real pleasure after the inevitable lukewarm drinks in London.

Accused Driver Undaunted By 'Stern Voice' Warning

He pleaded guilty to obstructing city constable William Mazzei who stopped Thormoe's car on Douglas just inside the Saanich border early yesterday morning.

The constable said he found a bottle with beer pouring from it beside Thormoe's car. The accused said it did not come from his car.

He had finished searching Thormoe and was explaining police rights to conduct a search to a passenger when the accused stepped between them.

The constable said the passenger wore a hearing aid and that he had spoken to him with a "stern voice." Const. Mazzei said Thormoe then grabbed his shoulders.

Thormoe said he only touched the constable and told him "Don't shoot, we're not dead."

In city police court Thormoe pleaded guilty to exceeding 40 miles an hour on Douglas and was fined $15.

Berry earlier this week pleaded not guilty to three of five charges but yesterday entered a guilty plea to all charges.

Fines totalling $70 were imposed on the remaining four charges of failing to give his correct name and address to a police officer, failing to carry car registration in a conspicuous place, having inadequate brakes and using another person's licence.

He had eight previous trafic convictions.

John H. Yarmie, 930 Empress, convicted of careless driving, was fined $45.

His car crashed with a police motorcycle at Burnside and Washington, July 29 about 2:45 p.m. Const. Don Rose suffered a fractured right [illegible].

Police said Yarmie told them at the scene he had made no hand signal to begin his turn and did not see the motorcycle approach.

Two passengers and Yarmie received a head injury, was given through the windscreen and that on looking through the rear window they did not see any approach of headlights.

Const. Rose said he was running without a red light when Yarmie began his turn. He could not estimate his speed and based on Burnside before approaching Washington to avoid grave before passing the accused's car.

He was 30 feet behind when Yarmie swung right and then began a turn in front of the motorcycle, Const. Rose said.

In Saanich court Y. H. Leong, 910 Caledonia, pleaded guilty to driving without a licence and was fined $35.

Kenneth C. Lawson, 476 Kerr, was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty to careless driving on Reynolds road Aug. 14. He told police at the time he was blinded by car headlights as he turned onto Reynolds from Cedar Hill crossroad.

Police said his car went 146 feet out of control overturned and was damaged to the extent of $500.

Hatchejan Singh, 270 Burnside, was fined $20 for driving an truck without clearance lights.

Gerrie Lok, 18, 321 Walton, was fined $25 for careless driving when convicted by Saanich police court magistrate A. J. Thomas.

Lok said his car had a broken spring before colliding with a car on Island Coach Lines bus on Brooklough road July 23.

Lok said the wheel just seemed to jump from my hands when the car was nearly past the bus. The bus and car each suffered about $200 damage.

Labor Body Pursues Interview

Victoria District Trades and Labor Council will seek a meeting with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi to pursue its charge of "reprehensible ineptitude" against the government in dealing with Interior flood conditions six weeks ago.

The meeting is expected next month. Council secretary Percy Bengough said that when information letters were first sent, the minister replied that a meeting could not be arranged until September.

Mr. Bengough said yesterday he would write the minister again for a meeting date and that a delegation will likely include Victor Midgley, carpenters International union western representative.

The council heard that traffic was interrupted too long in the Quesnel and Prince George areas and expressed its condemnation of the incompetence displayed in road and bridge repairs.

It claimed the government was using low-paid unskilled labor at unnecessarily high cost to the public.

TV Talk

BY ROY PARRETT

A few "dyed in the wool" CBC fans are still belittling the recent Colonist-RETA survey which showed that only nine per cent of local viewers preferred CBUT, Vancouver, to United States stations.

Which is like refusing to vote and then saying that the government is not truly representative of the people.

The result of a recent Vancouver TV poll conducted by a commercial agency may be of interest to these fans.

In Vancouver, where CBUT can easily be received without any outside aerial at all, the results are as follows:

Fifty-six per cent of Vancouver viewers watch American programs while only 44 per cent watch their local outlet.

Vancouver viewers are very willing to install an expensive outdoor aerial in order to watch American programs, the survey shows.

"Just how high is this new antenna you put up?"

Twenty-one per cent of the viewers watch KING-TV in Seattle more than any other station, according to the poll. Bellingham's KVOS-TV is the favorite with 16 per cent of Vancouver's viewers, while KOMO-TV polled 15 per cent. Only a handful of viewers voted for KTNT-TV Channel 11 as this station is not well received in Vancouver. It polled less than three per cent of the votes.

FAMILY DIVIDED: A father and his son are separated by more than the border between East and West Germany on the "Best in Mystery" on Channel 4 at 9.

NEW COMEDY SHOW: "The Great Gildersleeve" of radio fame makes his TV debut on Channel 4 at 10.

ALTAR BOUND: Mala Powers stars in the "Bewildered Bride," the "Undercurrent" drama on Channel 11 at 10.

MOVIE NIGHT: Margaret Rutherford is the featured actress in "Miss Robin Hood" on Channel 2 at 11.

LATE SHOW: "The Underdog" is the movie slated for Channel 11 at 11 p.m. tonight.

Canada Won't Copy U.S. Code

Resistance to Queen's Enemies Covers Prisoners-of-War Ethics

OTTAWA (CP)—Long-standing Canadian military regulations seem to embody the spirit—if not the letter—of a new [illegible] conduct, defence officials said Thursday.

The six-point U.S. code prescribed for American servicemen comes into effect Wednesday.

Its lofty principles, Ottawa officials said, seem to be implied, at least, in the Queen's regulations, the oath of allegiance and the code of service discipline which apply to Canadian servicemen. There was no plan to set up a code in Canada similar to that of the U.S.

The U.S. code stipulates that an American fighting man should be prepared to give his life for his country, refuse to surrender on his own initiative, continue to resist after capture and evade to the utmost any questions put under physical and mental duress after capture.

In Canada, the oath of allegiance requires a serviceman to bear faithful allegiance to the sovereign and resist her enemies. By implication, resistance must continue until death, officials said.

NO AID TO ENEMY

If a prisoner of war, a Canadian must not provide aid or comfort to the enemy, under maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

However, officials said, circumstances under which a prisoner of war gives military information are examined by a board of inquiry, with each case being studied individually. If a prisoner willingly gives information in return for special favors he is liable to a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

But if information is given under duress of any kind he may be excused.

Canada adheres to the so-called Geneva convention under which all servicemen of signatory countries are required to tell their captors only their rank, name and service number.

As prisoners of war, officials said, it is their duty to do all that is reasonable and proper to facilitate their return to operational status. That implies that they should seek to escape, but there is no penalty if a man declines to take part in a risky escape.

Torch Put Out

DAYTON, O. (UP) — Sheriff Bernard L. Kelter squelched the "flame of freedom" when he caught Charles Daily, 23, trying to burn his way out of the county jail with a lead pencil.

Daily was using an improvised "torch" a wire from a radio attached to the graphite in a pencil—on the metal ceiling above his cell, unaware that there was a foot of concrete above it.

Father Puts Foot Down

Six Pilots Enough For Single Family

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — Tom Lamb has put his foot down. Six pilots in one family, he says, is enough.

His youngest son, 18-year-old Connie, would like to be a pilot along with his dad and five brothers.

"But we've got enough pilots in the family now," says Tom. "I want him to be a veterinarian."

So Tom has sent his youngest to far-off Seattle to take a veterinarian's course. Eventually he will manage Tom's 54,000-acre cattle and muskrat ranch at Moose lake, 25 miles east of this northern gateway town.

Father and the other sons will look after Lamb Airways Ltd., a unique family air service operating out of The Pas to far-flung points in northern Canada.

Born in Grand Rapids, Man., in 1898, Tom started out in the trading business which he took over from his father in 1925. A natural-born mechanic, Tom spent his spare time working on the old Vedette flying boats that first flew over the north country.

The early bush pilots taught Tom how to fly and he soon was flying fish into The Pas from the surrounding district.

"When I saw there was a few dollars to be made in this business I decided to form my own company," he said.

That was in 1935. Now 57, Tom is still flying and in top physical shape.

Married in 1925, he has nine children. The three oldest are Sheila, 28, married and in Seattle; Carol, 27, also married and running Tom's trading post with her husband at Moose Lake, and Phyllis, 26, wife of Cal Gibson, the airways' office manager.

After them came the boys: Greg, 24, is chief pilot and assistant manager; the twins, Dennis and Don, 22, both pilots; Jack, 21, a pilot; Doug, 19, a pilot; and Connie.

BUSY OUTFIT

Tom said he stopped keeping a log of his flying hours after 10,000 hours, but estimates he has about 14,000 to date.

And with all the activity going on in the north country the Lamb brothers are logging a staggering amount of hours.

Sockeye Stocks Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — The salmon fishing industry of British Columbia with a new price in the offing is desperately trying to stock up a reserve of the high-priced sockeye variety in the face of the poorest season in many years.

The Fisheries Association of B.C. Thursday announced the industry had accepted an increase of $2.50 a case for packed sockeye from the United Kingdom, bringing the base price to $18.50 a case.

At the same time, negotiations are under way between U.S. buyers and salmon packers for an increase in the British buying quota.

Norman Hyland, executive sales manager for B.C. Packers Ltd., said the overseas market was expected to absorb all the sockeye B.C. can ship this year and the carryover from last year's pack is "very nominal," despite a record pack of 680,000 cases.

"We will be lucky to get 250,000 cases this year," he said commenting on season's poor sockeye fishing—one of the worst in many years.

"We are going after all the fish we can get. We are still hoping the late Fraser run will bring us up to par to a normal off year," said another industry spokesman.

Aircraft Scours Lake

WINNIPEG (CP)—An RCAF helicopter scoured the southeast shore of Lake Winnipeg around Traverse bay Wednesday checking on the report of a resident that he saw an airplane blow up near there last month.

A T-33 jet trainer, piloted by PO H. F. Walsh, 19, of Victoria, disappeared more than three weeks ago on a training flight out of Gimli, Man., on the lake's west shore. An extensive search has failed to uncover a clue to the plane's whereabouts.

An RCAF spokesman said the air force is continuing an exhaustive check of all possible clues.

Jury Fixes No Blame

SIDNEY—A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury in the case of Gordon W. Lowe, 28-year-old Nanaimo electrician, killed near here early Monday morning.

He was a passenger in the car of Desmond G. McGimpsey, Victoria, whose southbound car went off the road 3.2 miles north of Sidney on West Saanich road. He was crushed under the overturned car.

Other passengers, Miss Mary and Miss Joan Pratt, of the Chalet, North Saanich, were uninjured.

Advice Sought On School Plan

PORT ALBERNI—Building inspectors of the twin cities will attend the school board meeting Monday night to go over plans for the $90,000 primary school with members of the board.

At this week's meeting trustees had suggested asking advice from members of contracting firms in the area before approving the plans and specifications submitted recently by the architects.

Later a decision was made to ask William Fraser, Port Alberni building inspector, and Jack Freer, Alberni inspector, to give their advice.

Approval Given

A $250 grant for the B.C. Association of Assessors has been approved by the provincial cabinet.

An order-in-council passed this week says it is "deemed necessary and expedient that the province of B.C. undertake a share in the general expenses of the B.C. Association of Assessors."

Yacht Club Fleet Pays Second Visit

Royal Victoria Yacht Club's second organized visit to United States water this season will be made this week-end, when a large fleet of sail and power boats will circumnavigate San Juan Island.

The first visit was a week ago, in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association, and took the form of a race to Port Angeles from Esquimalt on Saturday, with a return race to Cadboro bay next day. Jack Smith's 8-meter yacht Reality won the outward race, and R. Scott-Moncrieff's ketch Hanna the 20-mile race home.

This week-end's event will be a combination of racing and cruising. Starting at 10 a.m. tomorrow, the sailing fleet will race to Friday Harbor via Cattle point at the southeast tip of San Juan island. Power cruisers will gather at Roche Harbor at 1 p.m. and depart an hour later for Friday Harbor, where both fleets will join forces.

The rendezvous at Friday Harbor Saturday night will be highlighted by a salmon bake, and in all probability a race to Sidney via Spieden channel will be organized for the sailing division Sunday morning.

Coast Guard Screening 14

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Coast Guard disclosed Thursday it is making security checks on 14 men in addition to seaman apprentice Pierce Gaston of San Francisco.

The service announced earlier that it had withheld Gaston's reserve commission when he was graduated from officer candidate school last April, because of his mother's past association with alleged subversive groups.

The Coast Guard said Thursday that 14 others of its 28,000 men are under investigation. These checks are a continuing process, as they are in the other military services. The number of men under inquiry may vary from time to time.

The service declined to say whether any of the other investigations involve the withholding of commissions.

Mrs. Hanna Chapman Barker is counting the days until she can celebrate her 100th birthday, Sept. 30. There'll be a quiet party at the Aged Women's Home where she has lived for the past two years. Two weeks ago she had a bad fall and that was the first time she's seen a doctor for "years and years." (See story on Page 13.)

Socred Bars Critics

EDMONTON (CP)—Liberal opposition leader J. Harper Prowse suggested in the Alberta legislature Thursday that Premier Manning reconsider his "ill-considered" action of banning Alberta's two largest newspapers from his press conferences.

Leading off the debate in reply to the speech from the throne, ex-newspaper man Prowse said the premier's action will hurt only the public which has a duty to be interested in public affairs.

OPPOSED SOCREDS

He was referring to two press conferences called by Mr. Manning in the last two weeks. Representatives of the Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal were excluded. Both papers opposed the Social Credit party in the election campaign which preceded the June 29 Alberta election.

At Monday's press conference the premier announced the makeup of the five-man royal commission appointed to investigate opposition charges made during the election campaign.

ENTITLED TO OPINION

Mr. Prowse, a reporter for the defunct Edmonton Bulletin before the Second World War, said the premier was entitled as an individual to dislike those who did not see things the way he does.

(At Monday's press conference representatives of The Canadian Press, British United Press and radio stations CFRN and CJCA were invited and attended.)

"However, the premier holds press conferences, not as an individual, but as the head of government of this province," Mr. Prowse said. "When a person assumes a public office, one of the burdens which he assumes with that office is the loss of his right, when acting in an official capacity, to consider his own wishes as an individual."

Mr. Manning followed the Liberal leader as speaker but made no reference to press conferences.

UN Protests to Reds

Koreans Branded 'Trigger-Happy'

Unarmed Trainer Blasted from Sky

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters)—The United Nations command Thursday accused "trigger-happy gunmen" in North Korea of shooting down an unarmed training plane and damaging another.

One of the most strongly worded UN protests since the end of the Korean War in July, 1953, pointed to eight other such shooting incidents in the last 10 months and said the Communist gunners "seem to derive a fiendish delight" in firing against unarmed planes.

A UN announcement said the trainer plane, carrying an American pilot and observer, was shot down near the UN side of the demilitarized zone Wednesday. It said a C-47 transport plane looking for the missing trainer Thursday returned to its base with bullet holes in one wing.

Maj-Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior UN member of the military armistice commission, made the protest to Communist members of the commission. He demanded the immediate return of the pilot and observer whose plane crashed in Communist territory and punishment of the guilty gunners, spokesman said.

Parks described the shooting as "an unprovoked hostile act" and protested against "the wanton murders and acts of inhumanity committed by your side."

Parks' protest letter said UN ground observers "saw your side open fire while the defenceless plane was over the demilitarized zone and subject it to continuous murderous and devastating ground fire until the aircraft crashed into the territory under the military control of your side."

LISTS 53 VIOLATIONS

Parks said the demarcation line was difficult to identify from the air. Communist planes had intruded over the line on 53 different occasions, he said, but not once had any fire been directed against them.

"In the past 10 months alone, there have been nine officially recorded instances in which UN command aircraft have been fired upon by your trigger-happy gunners, who seem to derive a fiendish delight in firing against unarmed aircraft incapable of returning their fire."

The British Labor party leader and former prime minister, Clement Attlee, suffered a cerebral thrombosis just after returning from a holiday in Yugoslavia 10 days ago, his wife disclosed in London Thursday night. She said he has made a recovery but is now suffering from a skin ailment. Mr. Attlee is 72.

Police Capture Killer

The capture of the fugitive ex-convict, who had slain one officer and wounded another, ended Chicago's biggest manhunt since FBI agents shot down desperado John Dillinger 21 years ago.

The building in which the 26-year-old gunman was found is a mere two blocks from the Biltmore theatre in which Carpenter shot and wounded a rookie policeman who tried to arrest him Wednesday night.

Police surrounded the building after receiving a tip from other residents that Carpenter was holed up in a second-floor room. Carpenter had held three residents as prisoners but a man managed to slip out and call police.

Carpenter was caught on the roof of the building after the tear gas was shot into the room where he had been terrorizing the family. There were no reports of gunplay in the capture, although Carpenter was armed.

Mystery Blasts Rock Oak Bay; Experts Baffled

Four mysterious blasts shook peaceful Oak Bay yesterday afternoon and caused plaster to fall in some houses.

Uneasy residents telephoned the police. Police rang the navy and the Daily Colonist rang the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. But late last night there was still no official explanation.

Oak Bay police timed the tremors between 3 and 3.10 p.m.

LIKE TRUCK

"One shock was like a truck hitting our office," said the officer.

"We checked a blasting company but found they were not working at the time," he said.

"The navy reported they had no ships on target practice," he added. "Anti-aircraft practice was held by the army between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., but this was in the Albert Head region, a good distance from here.

"In any case such firing does not cause shock," he said.

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said that seismograph records were undisturbed during the tremors.

The meteorological station at Gonzales point reported that their windows were rattled but that the barometer needles were not moved.

Mrs. James T. Lee, 2550 Maynard, said: "The shocks brought down plaster in my house."

RCAF officers at Vancouver and Comox said that so far as they knew there were no jets in the neighborhood.

"Jets breaking the sound barrier produce a noise like a ripple of thunder but not usually any earth tremors," said one officer.

One possible clue noticed by a number of people was a strange cloud formation seen at the time of the tremors.

"The cloud was like a long feather, unlike anything I've ever seen," said Oak Bay police radio clerk Harry Woods.

"I noticed it just at the time of the noises," he said, "but it didn't look to me like anything formed by a plane."

W. A. Scott, who runs the Guest House hotel at 1052 Newport, also noticed an "unusual" cloud formation.

"My wife and I have experienced many earthquake tremors but these blasts this afternoon were different," said Mr. Scott. "There was a crackling noise not usually associated with a quake."

Last night W. G. Milne, seismologist at the Dominion observatory, recalled that 12 to 18 months ago a mysterious blast broke windows in View Royal. Nothing was recorded on seismographs and there was no apparent cause.

Save Strathcona Park!

Slimy Chaos Alternative To Beauty

This is the last in a series of articles by Dr. Roderick Haig-Brown, famed Campbell River author and conservationist, presenting the case for protection of Buttle lake and Strathcona park from damage by power projects.

By RODERICK HAIG-BROWN

There are two alternatives in the future of Strathcona park and Buttle lake. The first is mud and slime, stumps and debris, chaos of logging, hazard of fire. It will be followed by years of blowdown creeping gradually back into the tall forest, creating new fire hazard, building into an increasing jackpot of logs and brush and second-growth.

It will mean destruction of natural spawning beds, flooding of flats that are life itself to the wintering elk herds, drowning of swamps and deciduous trees that are food for beaver and ruffed grouse. It will bring about an enormous and destructive change in every natural balance within the park boundaries.

The second alternative is an untouched, unchanged natural area, more beautiful than any other on the island, true to the original cycles and balances as no other area can ever be. And the difference between these two alternatives is something less than fifteen feet of water; perhaps less than ten feet.

If the lake and the park are saved, as they must be, what is their future?

It has been said many times in the present controversy that the Park is inaccessible, that the public cannot get into it. Only a few millionaires fly in there and keep it to themselves.

This is a lie. Until the old trail was logged over the park was always accessible to the public.

Even after that, people who had been going in for years continued to go in, over the abandoned railroad grades.

Within the past year or two, people have gone in by hundreds, over the narrow twisting logging road that is too often barred by gates. But all this is not the measure of the lie. The true measure of the lie is in the suggestion that any lake lying 30 miles back from salt water and only 700 feet above it could possibly be called inaccessible.

That is a lie so obvious that it should never have fooled anyone. But it has fooled people. Any government of the past 18 years awake to its responsibilities could have built a good road into the lake for less money than was spent on the old trail. And the people who foster the lie know this very well. If you don't choose to cross a street, it is true that you won't get to the other side; but that doesn't make it inaccessible.

Strathcona is the most readily accessible major park in British Columbia. Building a road into Buttle lake is a cheap and simple operation by any standards. It is long overdue and it is a natural first step in the development of the park. The present logging road is not a good enough entrance to a great provincial park, and the public must not be left dependent upon the good will of logging companies.

It is equally urgent that the park boundaries be changed to take in the full length of Buttle lake and at least part of the new lake that will be formed. This can easily be done by exchange of forest land, since there are valuable timber licences on the western slope of the park, beyond the high mountains, which could and should be re-

New March On Goa Planned

BOMBAY, India (Reuters)—Two hundred unarmed Indian volunteers were reported ready to cross the border into Portuguese Goa today in the wake of a wave of riots and strikes that followed a similar invasion last Sunday.

Prime Minister Nehru and other Indian leaders have demanded that Portugal give up the minute pocket areas.

Tiffany's Sell Whole Store

Druggists Warned Of Laxity

VANCOUVER (CP)—Federal authorities plan to crack down on illegal sale of prescription drugs by pharmacists, Dr. C. A. Morell said here Thursday.

In an address before the annual convention of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, the head of the food and drug directorate of the federal health department also said changes are expected to be made next year in the Proprietary and Patient Medicine Act.

DISREGARD

Dr. Morell said reports from health department inspectors indicated there was a "widespread disregard for prescription regulations in some of our larger cities."

He did not specify the cities involved other than to say the infractions "are not from Vancouver but from farther east."

Dr. Morell said reports were not complete enough to determine the full extent of the situation.

The federal official declined to reveal the nature of the planned crackdown but said:

ALL WE CAN

"We are going to do all we can to bring about a better regard for regulations under the Food and Drug Act."

He told his convention audience of the case of a woman who committed suicide in one large city, but kept the identity of the woman and the city involved secret.

With a prescription marked "no repeat" obtained in 1949 the woman had succeeded in getting the drug 72 times from five drug stores.

Jail Fugitives Still at Large

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (BUP)—The biggest manhunt ever staged in central British Columbia continued yesterday for four jail fugitives who walked out of the $500,000, week-old provincial prison here when the main door was left unlocked.

More than 15 RCMP officers and 24 jail guards threw up road blocks around the city in an effort to capture Lucien Auben, 33, Rene Cavellier, 29, Nicholas Masking, 21, and Ewen McGowan, 21.

Soviet Assesses Canada

Litany of Libel Charged to Reds

The charge was made in an article in the July-August edition of "External Affairs," a monthly bulletin issued by the external affairs department.

The article contains extracts from the new Russia encyclopaedia to enable Canadians to judge for themselves "the bias, not to mention the veracity, of this official picture of Canada presented to the Soviet reader in a government-sponsored publication."

Main contention in the six-page article on Canada in the Soviet encyclopaedia is that this country is dominated by capitalists who are under the thumb of United States imperialists. It says Canadian monopolies and the Liberal party want a third world war.

CANADIAN "FACTS"

Other "facts" about Canada in the Soviet encyclopaedia:

1. "The armed forces of Canada are formally a part of the armed forces of the British Empire but in fact are commanded by a defence committee responsible to the cabinet of ministers and working according to the directives and under the control of the committee of the chiefs of staff of the U.S.A."

2. Radio broadcasting in Canada is "entirely in the service of the Anglo-American imperialists."

3. The U.S. is winning a bitter struggle with the United Kingdom for control of the Canadian economy.

4. The Progressive Conservative party, as well as the Liberal party, is linked with Canadian monopoly capital while the CCF leans on the well-to-do farmer and the petty bourgeoisie.

5. "The curricula and methods of teaching in Canadian schools are ruled by American pedagogy."

6. Canadian courts carry out a policy of repression against the working masses.

7. Eskimos and Indians "are deprived of elementary civil rights, are cruelly exploited and subjected to racial discrimination . . ."

8. Canadian agriculture is dominated by banks which "seize farms under the guise of assistance via one-sided loans and then they expropriate the land and all the property of the farmers."

9. Official Canadian statistics are deliberately falsified.

Esquimalt Frigate Returning

OTTAWA (CP) — The frigate HMCS New Glasgow is now en route home to Esquimalt from Pearl Harbor and the whole matter of Canadian naval participation in the Far East is under study by the government, a naval spokesman said Thursday night.

The New Glasgow, recently refitted, left Pearl Harbor Tuesday where she had gone on a "working up cruise."

The destroyer Sioux is the lone remaining Canadian naval unit in the Far East of three destroyers Canada originally sent there at the outbreak of the Korean War. It has been reported that she probably will be withdrawn.

Princess Gossip Mounts as Crucial Birthday Nears

By RANALD MacLURKIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Discussion of Princess Margaret's future burst into the open Thursday as, with the approach of her 25th birthday, British newspapers broke months of silence on the subject.

A profusion of front-page stories and feature articles speculated more frankly than ever before on her reported romance with a war-time air force hero who has had a divorce.

The sudden outburst keynoted a mounting atmosphere of public expectancy not unlike that of 1936, when King Edward VIII abdicated as a result of his association with Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

There's one big difference between then and now. In the royal crisis of 20 years ago, there was little doubt of Edward's feelings for Mrs. Simpson, divorced wife of a London business man.

Today, the Queen's younger sister remains silent behind the walls of Balmoral castle, leaving the nation to guess about her feelings for Group Capt. Peter Townsend, 40, the father of two young children.

Margaret's 25th birthday Sunday is the red-ringed day on the calendar because it is then she can marry without royal consent.

The Queen, no matter what her personal feelings might be, could never consent to marriage with someone who has been through the divorce court because she is head of the Church of England.

The church is strongly opposed to the remarriage of even the innocent party—like Townsend—in a divorce case.

Despite the rash of speculation, anyone who expects an official announcement about her wedding plans from Margaret almost as soon as the clock strikes midnight on the eve of her birthday is likely to be disappointed.

For one thing, announcements are seldom made from Balmoral, which the Royal Family like to regard as entirely their summer holiday home. For another, there are important and complicated constitutional snags to be overcome before the princess is free to marry, even after 25.

Under the Royal Marriages Act of 1782, she can give the Privy Council 12 months' notice of her desire to marry without the Queen's consent. The privy council is the country's top body of constitutional advisers.

If both houses of Parliament objected to the proposed marriage, the princess could not wed. Even if she tried to flout the law and go through a marriage ceremony, it would be declared null and void.

The Parliaments of any of the Commonwealth countries (except India, because it is a republic) could also object.

One thing is definitely known. None of the Commonwealth countries has been officially consulted so far about any intention of the princess to marry Group Captain Townsend—and these governments would be the first to be informed.

As Margaret's birthday draws near, the tone of speculation about the possibility of her marrying the handsome air hero is taking on a graver tone. Two years ago, when the gossip first started, there was a carefree, romantic note to the comment.

Now it is becoming realized just how serious a matter it would be if the princess—third in line to the throne—married without the consent of the Queen and the approval of the church.

KOREANS CALLED 'TRIGGER-HAPPY'

Socred Bars Critics

EDMONTON (CP)—Liberal opposition leader J. Harper Prowse suggested in the Alberta legislature Thursday that Premier Manning reconsider his "ill-considered" action of banning Alberta's two largest newspapers from his press conferences.

Leading off the debate in reply to the speech from the throne, ex-newspaper man Prowse said the premier's action will hurt only the public which has a duty to be interested in public affairs.

He was referring to two press conferences called by Mr. Manning in the last two weeks. Representatives of the Calgary Herald and the Edmonton Journal were excluded. Both papers opposed the Social Credit party in the election campaign which preceded the June 29 Alberta election.

At Monday's press conference the premier announced the makeup of the five-man royal commission appointed to investigate opposition charges made during the election campaign.

Mr. Prowse, a reporter for the defunct Edmonton Bulletin before the Second World War, said the premier was entitled as an individual to dislike those who did not see things the way he does.

(At Monday's press conference representatives of The Canadian Press, British United Press and radio stations CFRN and CJCA were invited and attended.)

"However, the premier holds press conferences, not as an individual, but as the head of government of this province," Mr. Prowse said. "When a person assumes a public office, one of the burdens which he assumes with that office is the loss of his right, when acting in an official capacity, to consider his own wishes as an individual."

Mr. Manning followed the Liberal leader as speaker but made no reference to press conferences.

UN Sends Protest

Unarmed Training Plane Shot Down by Red Guns

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters)—The United Nations command Thursday accused "trigger-happy gunmen" in North Korea of shooting down an unarmed training plane and damaging another.

One of the most strongly worded UN protests since the end of the Korean War in July, 1953, pointed to eight other such shooting incidents in the last 10 months and said the Communist gunners "seem to derive a fiendish delight" in firing against unarmed planes.

A UN announcement said the trainer plane, carrying an American pilot and observer, was shot down near the UN side of the demilitarized zone Wednesday. It said a C-47 transport plane looking for the missing trainer Thursday returned to its base with bullet holes in one wing.

Maj-Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior UN member of the military armistice commission, made the protest to Communist members of the commission. He demanded the immediate return of the pilot and observer whose plane crashed in Communist territory and punishment of the guilty gunners.

Parks described the shooting as "an unprovoked hostile act" and protested against "the wanton murders and acts of inhumanity committed by your side."

Parks' protest letter said UN ground observers "saw your side open fire while the defenceless plane was over the demilitarized zone and subject it to continuous murderous and devastating ground fire until the aircraft crashed into the territory under the military control of your side."

LISTS 53 VIOLATIONS

Parks said the demarcation line was difficult to identify from the air. Communist planes had intruded over the line on 53 different occasions, he said, but not once had any fire been directed against them.

"In the past 10 months alone, there have been nine officially recorded instances in which UN command aircraft have been fired upon by your trigger-happy gunners, who seem to derive a fiendish delight in firing against unarmed aircraft incapable of returning their fire."

Save Strathcona Park!

Slimy Chaos Alternative To Beauty

This is the last in a series of articles by Dr. Roderick Haig-Brown, famed Campbell River author and conservationist, presenting the case for protection of Buttle lake and Strathcona park from damage by power projects.

By RODERICK HAIG-BROWN

There are two alternatives in the future of Strathcona park and Buttle lake. The first is mud and slime, stumps and debris, chaos of logging, hazard of fire. It will be followed by years of blowdown creeping gradually back into the tall forest, creating new fire hazard, building into an increasing jackpot of logs and brush and second-growth.

It will mean destruction of natural spawning beds, flooding of flats that are life itself to the wintering elk herds, drowning of swamps and deciduous trees that are food for beaver and ruffed grouse. It will bring about an enormous and destructive change in every natural balance within the park boundaries.

The second alternative is an untouched, unchanged natural area, more beautiful than any other on the island, true to the original cycles and balances as no other area can ever be. And the difference between these two alternatives is something less than fifteen feet of water; perhaps less than ten feet.

If the lake and the park are saved, as they must be, what is their future?

It has been said many times in the present controversy that the Park is inaccessible, that the public cannot get into it. Only a few millionaires fly in there and keep it to themselves.

This is a lie. Until the old trail was logged over the park was always accessible to the public.

Even after that, people who had been going in for years continued to go in, over the abandoned railroad grades.

Troops Face Mobs

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American troops at Wolmi island braced today for new violence by mobs protesting the presence of Communist truce inspectors in the Republic of Korea.

In Seoul, an estimated 4,500 persons marched through the streets in renewed demonstrations. But there was no actual violence.

U.S. troops were barricaded against 300 Koreans at Wolmi island after three violent mob attacks Wednesday. The Koreans were defying President Syngman Rhee's "no violence" order last Monday.

Army officers were hopeful that a "get tough" talk with local Korean officials would allow them to re-open the 800-yard causeway linking Wolmi island, residence of some of the truce inspectors, to Inchon.

Mystery Blasts Rock Oak Bay; Experts Baffled

Four mysterious blasts shook peaceful Oak Bay yesterday afternoon and caused plaster to fall in some houses.

Uneasy residents telephoned the police. Police rang the navy and the Daily Colonist rang the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. But late last night there was still no official explanation.

Oak Bay police timed the tremors between 3 and 3.10 p.m.

LIKE TRUCK

"One shock was like a truck hitting our office," said the officer.

"We checked a blasting company but found they were not working at the time," he said.

"The navy reported they had no ships on target practice," he added. "Anti-aircraft practice was held by the army between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., but this was in the Albert Head region, a good distance from here.

"In any case such firing does not cause shock," he said.

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said that seismograph records were undisturbed during the tremors.

The meteorological station at Gonzales point reported that their windows were rattled but that the barometer needles were not moved.

Mrs. James T. Lee, 2550 Maynard, saidt "The shocks brought down plaster in my house."

RCAF officers at Vancouver and Comox said that so far as they knew there were no jets in the neighborhood.

"Jets breaking the sound barrier produce a noise like a ripple of thunder but not usually any earth tremors," said one officer.

One possible clue noticed by a number of people was a strange cloud formation seen at the time of the tremors.

"The cloud was like a long feather, unlike anything I've ever seen," said Oak Bay police radio clerk Harry Woods.

"I noticed it just at the time of the noises," he said, "but it didn't look to me like anything formed by a plane."

W. A. Scott, who runs the Guest House hotel at 1052 Newport, also noticed an "unusual" cloud formation.

"My wife and I have experienced many earthquake tremors but these blasts this afternoon were different," said Mr. Scott. "There was a crackling noise not usually associated with a quake."

Last night W. G. Milne, seismologist at the Dominion observatory, recalled that 12 to 18 months ago a mysterious blast broke windows in View Royal. Nothing was recorded on seismographs and there was no apparent cause.

Police Capture Killer

The capture of the fugitive ex-convict, who had slain one officer and wounded another, ended Chicago's biggest manhunt since FBI agents shot down desperado John Dillinger 21 years ago.

The building in which the 26-year-old gunman was found is a mere two blocks from the Biltmore theatre in which Carpenter shot and wounded a rookie policeman who tried to arrest him Wednesday night.

Police surrounded the building after receiving a tip from other residents that Carpenter was holed up in a second-floor room. Carpenter had held three residents as prisoners but a man managed to slip out and call police.

Carpenter was caught on the roof of the building after the tear gas was shot into the room where he had been terrorizing the family. There were no reports of gunplay in the capture, although Carpenter was armed.
